EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THE queenly actress, Mary Anderson, has been quite ill from overwork, but is better.

THE actress, Mrs. Langtry, the "Jersey Lily," is also ill and while an operation for tonsilitis was being performed on her throat the other day she swooned twice.

IT is rare indeed that a United States Senator resigns. This makes the resignation of Senator Chace, of Rhode Island, noteworthy. Perhaps that fact furnishes a clue to the explanation. A Republican will be chosen in his place, the Legislature being in session.

A DEMOCRATIC United States Marshal in Kentucky has handed in his resignation on the ground "that the Federal offices should be filled from the party in power." This is one of the chief articles of the Democratic creed, but for the present it has been suspended until further notice.

MR. GARRETT and his party have reached as far as Texas in their travels They send back word that he is "first rate," and express the belief that if he "only takes care of himself" he 'will return as good as new." Everybody will hope that he will "take care of himself," whatever that actually means.

THE New York Mail and Express says: It may be fun to pick up gold nuggets in Lower California; but when, in order to do it, you have to live in a place where there is no water, where canned goods are $200 a dozen, where bacon is $25 a pound, and other things cost in porportion, then the idea seems to lose some of its attractiveness.

MR. JAMES BROWN POTTER, it is said, is seeking a divorce from his wife. It is said that their natures are quite different and the plea will be incompatability of temperament, which will not be opposed by Mrs. Potter. Her husband has acted in a very chivalrous way While she was a struggling actress he encouraged her though he did not approve of her course. Now that she has made her profession profitable he will seek a separation from her.

WE hope it is true, as it is reported of Secretary Tracy of the Navy Department, that he will make short work of the parlor officials who spend their time in Washington society. We predict that the Secretary will find it the most agreeable duty of his entire term. The Secretary was an astonished man the other day when he ascertained that by an omission or negligence in Commodore Sicard's division there were no guns for the new cruiser Charleston.

THE St. Louis Republic, a staunch Free-Trade paper, and which loudly contends that there can be no such thing as a Democratic Protectionist, says that with the adjournment of the Fifteenth Congress. Mr. Samuel J. Randall made his final exit as an influential factor in the Democratic party, and to this it adds: "The place which has known him so long will know him no more forever, and the party whose steps he has so long cumbered will pass on to victory won on an issue which he had done his best to discredit."

THAT was a sad event in Italy when the son of a mayor of one of the Italian cities was shot by mistake, it being supposed that he was the accomplice of "Red Nose Mike," the murderer of Paymaster McClure. The fault seems to be that of the Italian who gave information to the detectives. The young man, who died from the wound inflicted, is said to have been a youth of great promise. The most scrupulous care should be used by detectives in the pursuit of criminals.

SEVERAL years ago the Senate authorized the purchase of busts of all Vice Presidents who have presided over the Senate of the United States since the foundation of Government. These busts are to be placed in niches in and about the Senate Chamber. At the time of the passage of the resolution three Vice-Presidents, Messrs. Hamlin, Wheeler and Arthur, were living and steps were immediately taken to secure their busts. At the same time contracts were made for the busts of the earlier Vice-Presidents. The first of these received, that of Thomas Jefferson, reached the Capitol a few days ago. It is of white marble and heroic size. Its exact location has not yet been determined.

LABORERS' WAGES.

There is no one more earnestly interested than the writer in the welfare of the laboring man. That he should have regular but not too arduous labor at living wages is something we earnestly desire. What is meant by "living" wages? We take it to mean that sum which will enable people to live comfortably and in a way conformable to this age of civilization.

That we may not be misunderstood or misconstrued we will indulge in details. Say the family numbers eight persons—the parents and six children—the ages of the latter ranging from two to fourteen years. Decency demands that the house they live in shall contain at least six rooms—a sitting room, dining room, kitchen and three sleeping apartments. It is presumed that the wife and motner, notwithstanding her six children, is able to do all her own work and no maid servant is required. Again it will be necessary that parents procure one entire outfit of new garments for themselves each year, and for at least the younger children two such outfits per year. The food must be nourishing—a sufficient quantity of bread, meat, potatoes, milk, coffee, butter, flour and sugar—fruit at least in summer. Seven tons of coal per year and one cord of wood will keep them warm. The children must go to school. This completes the expenses of a family who never need a physician and never spend money foolishly, though we must add a small sum such as is required in every family to replace furniture and other household articles which wear out. Let us estimate this expense.

Rent of house per year— — —	$100.00
Clothing-men $25, woman 25, six children $20 each. — — —	170.00
Bread, 70 cents per week — — —	36.40
Meat, counting it an average of only one meal a day--25 cents worth—$1.75 per week, or per year — — —	91.00
Potatoes, 12 bushels per year, at an average of 75 cents per bushel	9.00
Milk, one quart per day, at 8 cents per quart — — —	$29.00
Coffee, one pound per week, which would make it very weak indeed —	14.50
Butter, 2 pounds per week, which is pretty thin — — —	21.00
Sugar, three pounds per week —	12.50
Flour, for other purposes than bread making — — —	12.00
Coal, seven tons — — —	40.00
Wood — — —	5.00
Extras, 50 cents per week — — —	26.00
School books, per year — — —	12.00
	$578.40

These are the small expenses of a family. Every man should aspire to rear at least six children and some are fated to double that number. None of them have reached the age which will permit them to work and earn money for themselves.

Do men receive sufficient wages to live thus as they are evidently intended to live? We tell only the real truth as it was told us on Saturday and we cannot discredit the evidence. There are men, the fathers of families working at the manufactories in Bellefonte who receive only $1.10 per day—less than $350 per year. To make it worse, owing to long periods when the factories are partially closed down, they are forced to be idle, greatly reducing even the $350. Such men cannot live like men. Do you wonder that they become discouraged and commit crime? Is it strange that the spirit of anarchy is increasing?

But there is no spirit of anarchy among the faithful and honest working men in Bellefonte. There is a just complaint a questioning as to why such things should be so. They tell us that there have been reductions of wages without any corresponding reductions of the selling price of the products. They ask for protection not only in tariff, but against the rapacity and oppression which they experience from those who should be interested in them and whose welfare they would gladly take an interest.

To be sure, they are sometimes told that the reason for low wages is because the factories are not making money. They would be willing to believe this could they see any signs of economy in the personal expenses of employers. But they know that while such expenses are large—almost princely—the bank accounts and investments of such employers suffer no diminution. Lost in wonder at the condition of affairs, experiencing their own want, they make an effort at self-protection, and surely the times are ripe in this country for instant measures in in their behalf. Who will be their true Moses and deliver? They detest socialism and anarchy as much as do their employers, but it is not in the nature of any man to feel oppression forever without murmur, complaint and an effort to correct the wrong.

Women and Children Have Their Rights.

Some of the letters favoring the Amendment, which are published in the Philadelphia Times, are very strong. People who talk about the unjust confiscation of property which the adoption of the Amendment would entail seem to forget the awful robbery which the business, as now carried on, perpetrates on thousands of individuals. The gentleman whose name is signed to the letter printed below elaborates as follows on this subject:

L. F. S. of Lancaster in his article of January 19, under the head of "Confiscation, of the Property of Liquor Dealers" closes with this question: "Let us do unto others as we would have others do unto us." It is upon this very principle that I for one will vote and do all in my power in an honorable way to secure the adoption of the prohibition amendment, not as a party measure, but upon the principle of the greatest good to the greatest number in point of good morals, home comforts, national prosperity and financial economy, all of which are antagonized by the saloon. It is not a question of the greatest good to the few who are engaged in the drink traffic by which they may continue in a business which sacrificed the home and its comforts. The "fair-minded man" of which he speaks if governed by a sense of justice must see that he has a duty to perform toward the suffering thousands who are impoverished by the traffic, besides helpless multitudes that are victims of the saloon and go down into drunkards graves every year, leaving helpless widows and orphans to be cared for at the public expense.

The success of the trade is in every instance at the loss of the patrons. Not one dollar invested for drink at the bar of this disreputable business ever brings to the consumer one penny in return. Every dollar accumulated by the sale of rum is the price of mother's, wive's, widow's, and orphan's tears. Long and loud they have been appealing to the voters for redress; and now, when an opportunity is given to pass an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting this traffic which causes a loss to the taxpayers of our country of at least $900,000,000 with a further loss to the consumers of a like amount and 60,000 lives yearly, of which our State sustains her proportion, I ask the "fair-minded man" if we have not been criminally guilty before God and unjust to every principle of right in allowing such a business to exist under the protection of law? There can be no criminal injustice in extending the hand of protection to the suffering thousands who are unwilling victims of the ravages of the saloon.

Call for an Energetic Policy.

Though the news from Auckland confirms the impression already had that the Samoan story of last week was a canard, that fact will not lessen public interest in the the resolutions reported yesterday from the Minnesota Legislature. These make a bold demand for a vigorous policy of national defense, and for steps to furnish better facilities for commercial communication with foreign countries.

What has passed since the Samoan question arose, not to talk of the ways which were open to trouble with Great Britain about election time last fall, must convince every one that an adequate navy and seacoast defenses are a timely and wise investment. They cannot be had in a few weeks, or in a few months, yet circumstances now not foreseen might precipitate a war in less time.

As for the proposal for steamship lines to South America and other lands where business can be done by the United States, it is entirely in line with President Harrison's inaugural deliverance and with the best business sense of the country. The Minnesota resolutions will meet with national approval.

THE CABINET

The "New York World" is strangely losing its balance as an independent newspaper. For a long time it maintained a singular fairness in its criticisms of the two leading parties. Although itself a Democratic organ this paper very severely commented upon, and condemned many of the official acts of President Cleveland; and the rapid growth of The World was attained because of this spirit of independence more than from any other cause. Now, it has shrunk back into the narrow lines of bitter and bigoted partisanship.

In the last Friday issue of The World I find the following absurd statement. It is not a surmise, or a guess, but a direct assertion, and the publication of which this paper will have occasion to regret.—

"The appointment of Wanamaker places the Administration on a platform of corruption. It is a bad start."

I think Mr. Pulitzer must have been absent from the editorial sanctum when the managing editor passed this scrap of ridiculous editorial bluster.

The truth is, the Cabinet of President Harrison has been formed with special reference to fitness and ability, and in no preceding Administration has there been a better Cabinet, nor one better qualified to direct public affairs in the interests of the whole people.

And I wish to say as emphatically as it can be said that of the eight distinguished men chosen the President evinced the wisest and most judicious discrimination in the selection of Mr. John Wanamaker. The other members of the Cabinet were men of distinguished political career and influence; but Mr. Wanamaker had nothing beyond his own personal integrity of character and business ability to commend him. The wisdom of this selection will be made clear to the people before six months of the new Administration have passed. The Post Office Department was never before placed in the hands of a man so practical, methodical, and capable as is Mr. John Wanamaker.

The New York World had better send one of its youthful editors over to Philadelphia to make inquiries of the business men of that city, as to who John Wanamaker is before making any further disparaging remarks concerning him.

Now, the New York Herald takes a different tack—it speaks in quite complimentary terms of all the members of the Cabinet. As the World newspapes grows narrower the Herald broadens and becomes more liberal. There is not much of principle with either paper, to be sure, but there is a good deal of political policy—a sort of reaching out, or hunting for patronage; or, in other words, a kind of journalistic boodleism.

Still, the Cabinet is made, and it stands compact and firm, and it is only the New York World which has made "a bad start," in its fretful faultfinding.

TRUE GREATNESS.

There is a misconception in many minds as to what true greatness really is. It is not the occupancy of high position. There seems to be an idea that talent and worth will always reach its level. This is not true in regard to worldly position.

It is not necessarily true that a person is great merely because he or she fills high place; nor that one is lacking in greatness because the place he occupies is humble. Often it is the reverse. Indeed, the person who occupies high position, because of that fact, is to a certain extent under suspicion of lacking some of the essential qualities of honesty. It is not always so, perhaps not in a majority of instances, but there exists the possibility.

We know of many instances of individuals who might have advanced rapidly in place, power and wealth, but who refused to do so because the pathway upward devolved slightly from the line of perfect rectitude. Their severe conscientiousness prevented them from doing what to another of less scrupulous conscience would have seemed no obstacle. Therefore, the lower station is the only one that man could occupy in justice to himself.

We know that the attainment of power and influence is a laudable ambition, but far rather keep one's excellence of character than to attain anything at the expense of violating a principle. Therefore, do not tell young people that true worth will always reach its level, for is is not a fact considered in regard to worldly position. Perhaps it is not a fact that water will always attain its level, for there is the even, deep old ocean while a thousand feet above is the noisy but shallow mountain brook.

The Deadly Cigarette.

The bill which has gone through the Senate at Harrisburg making it a penal offence to sell cigarettes, cigars or tobacco in any form to children under the age of 16, is a wholesome one, which we hope the other branch of the Legislature will pass. There is no question of the deeply injurious effects of cigarette smoking, like drinking whisky, on youths especially. We forbid the sale of the fluid to youths unde 16, why not the deadly cigarette? The evils which the use generally inflicts eventuate in a bad crop of men. Several State Legislatures, including those of New Jersey and Michigan, have bills under consideration for the Prohibition of the sale of cigarettes to minors, and large amount of testimony favorable to such action has been presented to them. In Michigan the testimony of 300 teachers of boys has been taken on the subject and many of the facts given are of a kind that might well alarm parents.

A CORRESPONDENT at Washington says, Postmaster General Wanamaker has bought ex-Secretary Whitney's house here, and proposes to go to housekeeping at once. Secretary Blaine's house which he recently leased, will not be ready for occupancy before fall, and so he and his family will remain at the Normandie hotel until that time. Secretary Windom is the owner of an elegant residence in this city, but it is under lease at present, so that he is compelled to look for another. Secretary Proctor's family will not come here permanently until fall, though they are expected on a visit soon. Secretary Tracy's family will also wait until fall before taking up their abode in Washington. Secretary Noble's wife is in bad health at present and they have not decided yet what they will do. Attorney General Miller's family is here and busily engaged in house-hunting. Secretary Rusk left home in such a hurry that he did not bring his family with him, but expects it in a few days. So after reading of the unsettled condition of the Cabinet ladies it will be readily understood that the social life of the administration will not begin until next winter.

—The excellent Chauncey F. Black, who is one of the few Democrats who understand the real principles of his party and try to live consistent with them, is out with an appeal as President of the National Association of Democratic Clubs, for a celebration of the birthday of Thomas Jefferson on the 2d of April. The philosophical Black maintains in the hills of York county an old-fashioned, uncontaminated Democratic altar on which he keeps alive the pure and sacred flame of Jeffersonianism. It is true that the gospel of Jefferson as he preaches it in these days is musty and antiquated, but his zeal in expounding it is task of his life to educate his party to a knowledge of that statesmon, but there is not one Democrat in a hundred who has the faintest idea who Jefferson was. Mr. Black is an antiquary of rare diligence, but he will have a hard time of it in interesting the Democratic party in historical relics.

Winding Clocks for a Living.

There are half a dozen men in New York who make a living by winding and regulating clocks. There are many clocks that cost not only hundreds, but thousands of dollars each. It would not be common sense to let Tom, Dick and Harry fool with them. There are many places where it is necessary to have absolutely correct time, and this requires experts. And thus there has grown up a business of winding and regulating clocks.

—In 1882, at the close of a successful Republican administration, the State debt of Indiana was $871,825.12, and there was $698,079 48 cash in the Treasury. Since that time the Democrats have been in power, and now the cash in the Treasury has sunk to $25,000, while the debt has mounted up to $2,381,725.12, and the Legislature has just borrowed $2,000,000 to see the State through the year.

DRIFTWOOD is now experiencing a queer condition of affairs. The borough officers neglected to be sworn in on the first Monday in March and now the town is existing with only four councilmen and one constable, and don't know how to get along until the court makes the necessary appointments.

Poetry.

WHEN CANADA COMES IN.

No Utica, confined and pent,
Can circumscribe our powers;
The whole unbounded continent
Must rightfully be ours.
As down the endless grooves of change
This big old world shall spin,
Unchecked and free will be our range
When Canada Comes In

Outstretched are Freedom's mighty arms,
And broad is her embrace;
She saves from home and foreign arms
All those who seek her face.
The northern children of the free
Are all our kith and kin,
And we will greet them lovingly
When Canada Comes In.

No boundary questions men can raise,
No quarrels can befall,
When mutual wants and common ways
Make equal laws for all.
Then all will wonder why they had
Disputes of scale and fin,
And codfish shall consort with shad
When Canada Comes In.

Here Freedom opens wide her gates,
And down she throws her bars,
Inviting to her chosen States
Some great and glowing stars.
Then let the union wave increase,
And let the work begin,
And never may our efforts cease
Till Canada Comes In.

MOTHER'S WAY OF RESTING.

SUSAN TEALL PERRY.

I often marvel why it was I gave so little thought
To all the helpful lessons which my patient mother taught.
Now older grown, and she has gone, I often long to tell
Her how they come back to me, each one remembered well.
For in the work and cares of life that come from day to day,
I find I stop to ask myself "What was my mother's way?"

There never seemed to be with her a drudgery of life;
She got along so quietly with all its cares and strife.
She always sang about her work, and 'mid perplexing things,
The farm-house walls re-echoed: "Rise, my soul, and stretch thy wings."
I never heard old "Amsterdam," but that I think how oft
I bore my mother's soul from earth to unseen things aloft.

When sitting in her rocking chair, her lap with mending piled,
She used to say: "I want to rest; now read a Psalm, my child;"
I learned by heart about "the hills" and "lifting up my eyes;"
Those pastures green and "waters still" the Shepherd's love supplies;
And all about "abiding 'neath the shadow of his wing;"
For "God our refuge is, our strength," I read in every thing.

Sometimes I hurried through the Psalm, taking but little heed,
And then her thanks, so kindly said, encouraged me to read
Some of the words that Jesus spoke for that was mother's way—
To read from Psalms and Gospels both upon the busiest day,
For at such times she needed a much longer rest, and so
While but a child, I learned her favorite passages to know.

Those precious words of quiet come to my own soul, now I,
A busy woman, full of work, my daily duties ply.
Sing her hymns when fretted with my ceaseless rounds of care;
I repeat the Psalms and Gospels when in my sewing chair.
I wonder if she knows it, and how glad I am each day
That my mother's way of resting was such a helpful way.

DAY DREAMS.

How they come and how they go,
Ever fleeting, never slow,
Sailing up to heaven;
Tiny, subtle, wayward things,
Brilliant meteors sparkling rings,
Which flash, and then are riven!

How they go and how they come
Some so restful, yearning some;
Others like wild flowers;
Some like fragrant even-wind;
Some like clouds upon the mind,
Which, later, turn to showers.

How they come and how they go,
Born in sorrow, nursed in woe?
Oh, happy, useless dreaming!
Rainbow-tinted, many starred,
Tear-drops shed, sweet fancies marred—
Is all to end in seeming?

Our Story Teller

MY WIFE'S LEGACY.

'I don't like to calculate upon such things,' observed my wife; 'but if Aunt Jane were to die, I should not be a bit surprised if she left us that old-fashioned set of silver that belonged to my great-grand parents.'

Out of consideration for the printer, I will omit indications of the emphasis with which she usually spoke. If the reader will kindly consider every second word printed in small caps or italics, he will have some faint idea of her manner of expressing herself.

'It is a very handsome set,' I returned, glancing about our modest diningroom; 'and will hardly accord with our furniture.'

'It wouldn't look at all well with that sideboard,' returned my wife, promptly, 'it is so dreadfully shabby—oh, of course, I mean the sideboard, not the silver; don't be so smart.'

'I suppose, then, if such a thing were to happen, you'd have to have a new sideboard.'

She nodded complacently.

'I saw such a lovely one down-town to-day—antique oak, beautifully carved. I do admire oak so much.'

'But the rest of the furniture is walnut,' I objected.

'Walnut is altogether out of style, especially for dining rooms, she replied, with a disdainful glance at the chairs which we had once found very good to look at; 'and, after all, the sideboard is by so much the most expensive piece of furniture in a diningroom, that it doesn't cost much more to get a whole set than just that one piece. And even a walnut sideboard, new, would not look well with these chairs and that table.

I said nothing and the tacit surrender was accepted by my wife. Thence forth it was understood that if Aunt Jane should bequeath us that silver, we were to purchase a new set of diningroom furniture.

The next evening, as we were again at dinner, my wife remarked:

"I have been looking at carpets, today and saw one that just suits me—rich and subdued, you know, but not dingy,'

'Carpets' I repeated, in some surprise, 'I didn't know that there was one needed this season'

'Why, stupid,' rejoined my wife, petulantly (and the emphasis was all upon the pet name), did we not agree that the diningroom must be refurnished. And this carpet is so old and worn, of course it would not do at all with new furniture.'

Again I acquiesced silently, and she proceeded to make plans for meeting me the next day to examine and choose the carpet and furniture to be purchased later on. Well, if my wife's relations left her handsome silver, I must of course provide things in keeping with it.

She met me according to appointment, and having inspected the articles gave me to understand that my taste was so execrable as not to merit a moment's consideration, and announcing her own choice suggested, cooly:

'And now, let's go and look at the wall paper.'

'Wall paper?' I echoed, blankly.

'Of course, the room must be repapered if it is re-furnished. As for woodwork, I suppose there is no help for that—it will just have to be re-grained. Can they make that natural wood finish on wood that has been painted?'

I stared aghast: that silver was going to cost me a pretty sum. But I was helpless—entirely so; my wife had made up her mind.

That evening she was much elated at the prospect of being surrounded by such things as she had that day selected. There was but one cloud on her horizon.

'The diningroom will be nicer than the parlors,' she remarked, plaintively; 'I am afraid that they will really look shabby.'

I said nothing, hoping that if she were not contradicted she would not pursue the subject further.

Vane hope! She had it fixed in her mind that silence gave consent, and when I came home the next evening, had assumed that the parlors were to be newly fitted up.

'Don't you think,' she said, coaxingly, 'that as long as the parlors and diningroom are to be torn up, and are to have the painters and paper hangers here, we might as well have the whole house done? It would be very little more trouble, and then it would all look nice together.'

'It would be considerable more expense,' I demonstrated, faintly.

'You might draw the money out of the building association,' she suggested, and the I knew that our savings in that institution were doomed.

Aunt Jane lingered a long time. In justice to my wife, I must admit that she had become obvious of the fact that all these improvements depended upon a legacy, which could only be possessed after the death of her venerable relative.

A day or so after she had decided that the house was to be thoroughly renovated my wife said to me:

'I have been examining the parlor carpets, and I find that by using the best parts of both, and buying a wide border, I can get quite a new carpet for our bedroom—absolutely unworn.'

'Indeed!' I remarked, with pleased surprise; there was one thing that she would not want, any how.

'Yes, and the carpet that is now on it has enough good to cover the children's room if I put the worn part under the bed. Or maybe I'd better put that on the spare room,' she added, reflectively, 'and give that one to the children. Theirs get such hard wear that an old one will not last any time, hardly.'

I said nothing, but felt greatly relieved.

'As long as we don't have to buy a bedroom carpet,' she remarked, insinuatingly, 'don't you think we could afford a new set of furniture?'

'No, I don't,' I returned, savagely; whereupon she burst into tears and called me a heartless monster. To pacify her I had to promise the furniture, together with a new silk and a sealskin, that the mistress of the house might be as fine as her dwelling.

'It does seem a shame,' she said, a few days afterward, 'to spend so much money on this house. That's very handsome and expensive paper that we looked at, and to substitute an archway for the folding doors will cost something'—this was the first that I had heard of the archway—'and then those lovely carpets cut up to fit these small rooms, too!'

'Yes, it is a shame,' I replied, hardly crediting my senses. Not all had been lost, although much had been in danger.

'I am so glad that you think so,' returned my wife, briskly; 'I was sure that you would agree with me that it would be wiser for us to find a house that suits better, and buy right away. Real estate is cheap now, they say—there's so much in the market.'

She tried to put on a knowing look; if she had known half as much about that subject as about managing me, I should have felt impressed. As it was I weakly objected:

'My dear, I don't know where in the world I could get the money to buy a larger and better house—any house at all, in fact.'

'You could sell this,' she replied, nothing daunted.

'But if real estate is a drug on the market, I do not want to sell,' I retorted, thinking cunningly to turn her own weapon upon herself.

'There are those shares of stock, then.'

'But that stock is going up daily; if I wait six months, I can get double what it would bring now; or hold it, and draw big interest on my investment.'

'Well, what else are you going to do? You said yourself that we must have a larger and better house.'

Thereupon I mentally bade a regretful farewell to the stock and the money I had expected to make by holding it. My wife occupied her leisure time for the next three weeks in looking for a residence which should be in all respects suitable for the furniture we are going to buy. What she would desire next I could not guess, unless she should become thoroughly dissatisfied with me.

At the end of the period mentioned I came home one evening to find her in tears.

'Aunt Jane's dead, she sobbed; "the poor old lady died this morning. I have just come from her home.'

As Aunt Jane had been at the point of death for the past six months, I was hardly surprised to hear this bit of news. I did my best to comfort my wife, however, and comforted myself like a dutiful nephew-in-law at the ceremonies following the death.

When I returned home the next day after the funeral, my wife met me at the door, her face flushed, her eyes blazing.

'What do you suppose the old crank has done?' she demanded.

'What old crank?' I inquired wonderingly.

'Why, Aunt Jane, of course.'

'I'm sure I don't know,' I returned, mildly; 'but you should remember, my dear, that—'

'Oh, I know she's dead. She wouldn't give her things away under any other circumstances. She's left me a hundred dollars in cash, and that dear old silver to my second cousin, John Scott. He'll sell it, and spend every cent on liquor and cigars and horses, I know he will.'

Then the blaze in her eyes was quenched by a flood of tears. I did my best to soothe her, but my efforts were useless. I assured her that if her cousin sold the silver, we would buy it.

'I don't want it, she declared; 'I won't have it'—very vehemently—'and I won't get a single new thing in the house, or a new dress, or that sealskin, or anything, I'll just stay here with things as they are, and John Scott can keep his silver, and you can keep your building association money and stock, too. So there now.'

After that I did not try to assuage her grief; I was afraid that consolation might be costly.

THE OLYMPIC MOUNTAINS.

Where They are Located and How They Appear.

On the Western side of Washington territory, facing the restless ocean and defying its angry waves with a rock bound coast, stands the Olympic range of mountains. To the East of them is that magnificent spread of inland waters comprising Hood's Canal and Puget Sound, that has been called the Mediterranean of the Pacific. These mountains, during nearly all the year, present a continuous array of snow clad peaks for a hundred miles southward from the Straits of San Juan de Fuca, which washes their Northern end. They stand on the peninsula all in line, like soldiers up for inspection, while the mightier summits of Rainer and Baker, in the Cascads range, in majestic isolation, appear in front, like officers of high rank reviewing the parade. The space between Hood's Canal and the ocean is almost entirely occupied by the Olympic range and its foothills. The mountains seem to rise from the edge of the water, on both sides, in steep ascent to the line of perpetual snow, as though nature had designed to shut up this spot for her safe retreat forever. Here she is entrenched behind frowning walls of basalt, in front of which is Hood Canal, deep, silent and eternal, constituting the moat. Down in its unfathomable waters lurks the giant squib, and on its shores the cinnamon bear and the cougar wander in the solitude of the primeval forest. It is a land of mystery, awe-inspiring in its mighty constituents and wonder making in its unknown expanse of canyon and ridge.

SIXTY YEARS A SAILOR.

And Fifty Years ago Married to a Girl of His Heart.

A special despatch dated from Washington last night says: "Admiral and Mrs. Porter celebrated recently their golden wedding. His family circle gathered about the staunch old sailor, as well as a half thousand friends. The family group consisted of three sons and their families—Lieutenant Theodore Porter, wife and four children; Major Porter, wife and two children; Mr. Richard Porter, who is not married; the wife and two children of Capt. Carlisle Patterson Porter, who is in the Mediterranean squadron, and was the only absent member of the family; the Admiral's married daughter and her husband, Lieutenant and Mrs. Logan, and their two children, and Miss Elena Porter, the youngest of all.

Admiral Porter is now nearly seventy-six years old, and has outlived every other member of his family. His father was Commodore Porter, who commanded the first ship which opened commercial relations with Japan. The admiral has been sixty years in the United States service. Mrs. Porter was Miss Georgianna Patterson, and at the time of her marriage, her father, Commodore Patterson, who, with Jackson, had defended New Orleans against the British, was commandant of the Navy Yard in this city.

The wedding of Passed Midshipman Porter and Miss Patterson took place at her father's quarters at the Navy Yard on March 11, 1839. Mr. Hawley, of St. John's church, performed the ceremony. Only one of the bridesmaids is still alive and was present this evening—Mrs. Lee, wife of Colonel Lee, of this city. The bride and groom of fifty years ago received their guests surrounded by their son, daughters, grandsons and granddaughters. The Admiral is beginning to show the advance of time, but his welcome was as youthful, cheery and pleasant as ever. Mrs. Porter wore a splendid gown of white silk and gold brocade. Her wedding dress which has been carefully kept all these years, wouldn't fit her now so it couldn't be worn. Her wedding ring, which had been worn to a slender wire, was covered to-night by a broad band, presented by her husband, to preserve the original ring.

Admiral Porter is the only naval officer living who was present at the inaugural ball of President William Henry Harrison, and when he mentioned that fact to President Harrison last week, the President, in accepting an invitation for the anniversary this evening, said that he would waive all etiquette which surrounded the Presidential office, and that it would give both himself and Mrs. Harrison great pleasure to attend the reception. When they arrived this evening they stood in the yellow parlor of the suite and held an impromptu reception.

They sent a floral slipper. It rested on a square plaque of moss, edged with white rosebuds. The slipper was formed of deep yellow China asters and narcissus blossoms. The slipper was filled with nephetos rosebuds. A card with it bearing the congratulations of the President and Mrs. Harrison, had on the reverse side a quotation:

"Oh, my golden slipper I've laid it away, and I will wear it on my wedding day."

Among the guests were nearly all the members of the Cabinet, the diplomatic corps, Senators and Representatives, the officers of the army and navy and hundreds of the old time resident families of this city.

The Helena Herald says: Montana is more than twice as large as Washington, and will be nearly twice as large as either of the Dakotas. Those who think her wealth, population and power will not correspond with her area, are going to be wonderfully deceived. Montana is silver crowned, gold lined, copper bottomed and iron bound. Her mountains are clad with forests of pine and her valleys underlaid with exhaustless seams of coal. There are mines of health and vigor in her sparkling water courses and her pure, lively breezes.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION proposed to the citizens of this Commonwealth by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for their approval or rejection at a special election to be held June 18, 1889. Published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election.

Fourth. If twenty-two years of age or upwards, he shall have paid within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months and paid at least one month before the election," shall be amended, so as to read as follows:

First. He shall have been a resident of the United States at least thirty days.

Fifth. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States or the state, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of the State or of the high seas, nor while a student of any college or seminary of learning, nor while kept at any almshouse or public institution, except the inmates of any home for disabled and indigent soldiers and sailors, who, for the purpose of voting, shall be deemed to reside in the election district where said home is located. Laws shall be made for ascertaining, by proper proofs, the citizens who shall be entitled to the right of suffrage hereby established."

Eureka Coffee.

This well known beverage is an infusion of the roasted albumen of the coffee tree bill (Coffea Arabica), a native of Abysinia and Arabia, but now naturalized in many of the tropical countries colonized by Europeans.

There are a number of species of coffee, but this one only is known to possess valuable properties. The seed of Coffee Mauritiana prepared in the same way are bitter and slightly emetic. The genus belongs to the natural order Cinchonaceae. It has a tubular 4-5-cleft corrola and a succulent fruit containing two cells, lined with a cartilaginous membrane, and each containing one seed. In a wild state the coffee tree is a slender tree fifteen to twenty-five feet high, with few branches. In cultivation it is seldom allowed to become more than from 6 to 10 feet high, and is made to assume a sort of the form of a pyramid with horizontal branches almost from the ground. The leaves are evergreen, very shining, oblong, and leathery. The flowers are small, clustered in the axils of the leaves, snow white; the whole appearance of the tree is very pleasing and the smell of the flower is delicious. The fruit when ripe, is of a dark scarlet color, and the seeds are semi-eliptic and of a horny hardness. The seeds are commonly termed coffee beans, not however because they resemble in any respect the common bean, but from the Arabic word bunn. They are sometimes, but very incorrectly, designated coffee berries. The coffee succeeds only in countries where the average temperature ranges from 64 to 70 degrees F. In Peru and Quito it is acclimatized at an elevation of 6000 feet, where however, frost never occurs; but as it delights in a moist atmosphere, it nowhere thrives better than in tropical islands. Where the climate is dry abundant irrigation is necessary, but the supply of water is cut off as the fruit begins to ripen, in order to the improvement of its quality. The tree yields its first crop in the third year; the crop from a full grown tree may amount to a quart of coffee beans. As the coffee tree continues flowering for eight months its fruits are at any time of very uneven ripeness; in the West Indies, Brazil, and other places of same climatic conditions, there are three gatherings yearly. As equal care is not bestowed upon the preparation of it in all places, where it is cultivated, there are great differences in quality and price. The earlier history of the coffee tree is not very clear. It was not known to the Greeks or Romans; but in Abysinia and Ethiopia it has been from time immemorial; and in Arabia it was certainly in use in the 15th century, and over the rest of the East in the 16th century. Toward the end of the 16th century it was carried from Mocha to Batavia by a Dutchman, where it was soon extensively planted; and at last young plants were sent to the gardens of Amsterdam from which the Paris garden obtained a tree. A slip was sent from this last to Martinique in 1720, where it succeeded so well that in a few years all the West Indies could be supplied with young trees; then from those to Mexico, Central America, and the islands of the Pacific. The following sorts are particularly distinguished from each other in commerce: Mocha which comes from Arabia, Java or East Indian, Jamaca, Surinam, Bourbon, Golden, Rio, from Brazil, etc.

The employment of coffee as a beverage was introduced from Arabia into Egypt and Constantinople in the 16th century.

In Arabia and the East, coffee is not prepared as a beverage in the same way as in Europe. A decoction of the unroasted seeds is there generally drank, and for Sultans coffee the pericarp with the dried pulp roasted is employed. The great demand for coffee has led to the employment of a number of cheaper substitutes, among which chicory root is the best known in this country. Others of Dandelion root, Carrot, and the seed of yellow Iris, may be mentioned they are prepared by roasting like coffee; but all these substitutes lack the true constitutents of true coffees, caffeine and are therefore very different from it in their qualities.

In Sumatra the leaves of the coffee tree are used in place of the seeds. They are prepared by quick drying much as tea is cured, and in this state contains even a larger proportion of caffeine than the coffee seed itself. The use of this leaf may yet extend very much. We have however not received as yet a consignment of this leaf at the Eureka Grocery but we have the coffee bean of all kinds and degrees of excellence. We have a ground coffee (?) at 18 cents a pound. We do not claim that this is a pure article you cannot get a pure article at such a price now unless it would be of very poor quality or damaged in some way, but this is adulterated with some article as described above. We have also Arbuckles both red and black letter. The Edina, Bunola, Alaroma, roasted by a new patent process by "the Union Coffee Co. limited."

Willett's Favorite Coffee roasted and put up by Willett & Quimby. These are common grades. Of higher grades we have the best Java in the market, Mocha the very best, Old Mexican, Nicaragua all fine goods. A combination of some of these coffees make the finest flavored coffee in the world. In everything else as in coffee we aim to keep the very best goods in the market. We keep different qualities of course, but we sell all our goods for just what they are. If you want the best you can get it at the Eureka at as low a price as the same equality can be furnished by anyone and all goods guaranteed to be just as represented. A Cottage Home for Soldiers.

The Woman's Relief Corps of the Grand Army of the Republic is determined that there shall be a permanent home for disabled soldiers and their wives, for soldier's widows and for the orphans of disabled or indigent soldiers. Mrs. Annie Wittenmyer, Mrs. Helen S. Morrison, department commander of the Relief Corps, and Mrs. Jennie M. Reavley, past department commander, held a conference in the parlor of the Lochiel House at Harrisburg on Thursday with a committee of the Grand Army of the Republic.

It was determined that thirty incorporators should be appointed, fifteen from the Grand Army of the Republic and fifteen from the Woman's Relief Corps. These incorporators will be notified within the next week, and a meeting will be held at Harrisburg on April 4, for the purpose of organizing and having the home incorporated. Mrs. Wittenmyer, in speaking of the scheme said:

"We first want to get sixty acres of land as near the central part of the state as possible. If some philanthropic person will give us this land we will gladly accept; if not, we will be forced to buy it. The home is to be built upon the cottage plan. We will have one large central building, that will not cost less than $60,000 and the cottages will cost from $2500 to $3500 each. We will ask some of our rich citizens to perpetuate their names by building us a cottage which we will name for them. There are a number of wealthy people in the State who I am sure will contribute enough for a cottage. We will begin the work upon the home this Spring and expect to have some of the buildings opened next Fall."

It is understood that the ladies expect to ultimately have all the soldiers' orphans in the state transferred to their charge. As the location to be selected is to be near the centre of the State, the ladies should give Bellefonte and vicinity their serious consideration.

A Great Country.

What a glorious country we have! What abounding resources we enjoy! Here are accounts of new oil fields of Pennsylvania. Here are reports of new gold fields in Southern California. Here are the dispatches from Oregon about the opening of new timber ranges in the Cascade Mountains, and perhaps this news is more important than that from the other places. We are told that the Cascades, which have been opened up to travel by a new railroad, are covered with magnificent forests of majestic growth, forests of cedar, larch, fir, myrtle, laurel, oak, ash, sugar, pine, cabinet, maple and other valuable trees, that are ready for all uses known to the arts, and that constitute a variety of lumber surpassing that found in any other part of the United States, even Michigan, Maine or Georgia. We are also told that mineral belts and coal mines have been found in the same region, and that the fertile farming lands but await the hand of industry to give abundant crops of cereals. We are disposed to believe these wonderful reports from Oregon. All that the State needs for the development of its resources is population. It can sustain twenty millions of people besides the half million now living there.

We still have some of those nice New York Baldwin apples which we are selling at $2.00 per barrel. We are also selling them at any quantity, the customer wants, but you will consult your interest by purchasing them by the barrel. Eureka Grocery Co. High St., next door to Post Office.

New and Popular Music.

Mr. John Ford, who is known in every household as the author of the famous song "Will You Love Me When I'm Old," has written another, entitled "Sweet Rosalie" which is so charming that we predict for it instantaneous and universal popularity. It is one of those exquisite songs in which sympathetic words combined with an expressive melody reach the very hearts of the people. Price 40 cents. We have also received from the same publishers, F. A. North & Co., 1308 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, a copy of "Dance of the Spirits," a very bright and charming instrumental composition which will be appreciated by all good pianists. It is by Thomas O'Neill, a well known composer, and the price 50 cents. Messrs North & Co., will send the two compositions and a specimen copy of their Musical Journal, containing four other popular compositions, to one address for only 50 cents, for the purpose of introduction. This is a most generous offer, and all our music loving public should take advantage of it.

—Wonder how many people are relieved to hear that the war ship Nipsic is all right. We are. When we heard that she had been blown out of Samoan waters by dynamite cartridges from the German war vessel Olga our mental reservation was that war was imminent and we would be the first to volunteer our invaluable services in knocking Prince Bismarck's headgear into a cocked hat. We do not love war, but couldn't hesitate in the face of such an emergency. But the intelligence that the Nipsic is all right has led us to lay aside our gun and sword and beat our spears into pruning hooks. In imagination we had marched directly to the German capital, but in reality we will stay at home another year.

SUPERSTITIOUS CLEVELAND.

Cleveland has on many occasions since he was in office shown that he has been controlled by superstition. Only once has he stepped over the spot where Garfield fell. Never, it is said, did he leave the White House by the front door during the long intervals when the badges of official mourning were draped about the columns in front of the Executive Mansion. On all of these occasions, which have been quite numerous—Sheridan, Waite, Arthur, and the rest—the President always left the White House from the Potomac side, and it probably is a fact that no resident of Washington has ever seen him leave the White House on foot or walk about the city. Those who are the nearest to Cleveland say that he is superstitious, and that he has always been haunted with the dread of some new Guiteau.

AS TO BREATHING.—A boy fourteen years old, recently imported from Kentucky, handed the following in as a composition. 'Breathing.' The instruction was: 'Tell all you can about breathing.' He said: 'Breath is made of air. We breath with our lungs, our lights, our liver and kidneys. If it wasn't for our breath we would die when we slept. Our breath keeps the life a-going through the nose when we are asleep. Boys that stay in a room all day should not breath. They should wait till they get out of doors. Boys in a room make bad, unwholesome air. They make carbonicide. Carbonicide is poisoner than mad dogs. A heap of soldiers was in a black hole in India, and a carbonicide got in that there black hole and killed nearly every one afore morning. Girls kill the breath with corosits that squeezes the diagram. Girls can't holler or run like boys, because their diagram is squeezed too much. If I was a girl I'd ruther be a boy, so I can holler and have a great big diagram."

TIT FOR TAT.—"If this is your final answer, Miss Robinson," the young man said with ill concealed chagrin, as he picked up his hat to go, "I can do nothing but submit. Yet, has it ever occurred to you that when a lady passes the age of thirty-seven she is not likely to find herself so much sought after by desirable young men as she once was!" "It occurred to me with sudden and painful distinctness when you offered yourself just now," she replied. "Good night, Mr. Peduncle."

A gentleman once wrote to a lady whom he had offended by his dilatoriness, and who for a long time had refused to speak to him. His letter was earnest in supplications for forgiveness. It concluded with: "One word from your lips will make me happy. When and where will you speak it?" Her answe was, "Next Wednesday at the altar." To which he sent the following: 'I will be there.'

The worst case of selfishness on record is that of a youth who complained because his mother put a larger mustard-plaster on his younger brother than she did on him.

Persons with poor appetite, weak and debilitated, will find it the best tonic. Every one should use it, particularly those who have suffered for years with incurable chronic diseases. Microbes, or germs, are causes of disease. The medicine that will kill the germs and at the same time cure the patient is the one to use.

THE THREE GOVERNORS.

The Ridiculous Situation in West Virginia.

The majority of the West Virginia Legislature has made itself contemptible in the eyes of the country for the shameful neglect of duty which has resulted in three claimants of the Governor's seat.

It is the duty of the Legislature to receive and declare the vote for the State officers. It did so with regard to all the other officers, but refused, by resolution, to complete the count of the vote for Governor after counting enough to give the Democratic candidate an apparent majority. The remaining returns would have shown the election of Goff, but the Legislature refused to hear them read.

The consequence is that all the formalities prescribed have not been complied with, and thus Governor Wilson is given an excuse to refuse to surrender the office, because the Constitution provides that he shall hold office until his successor is elected and qualified.

Of course the refusal of the Legislature to do its duty does not alter the fact that General Goff was elected, and that gentleman was certainly justified in taking the oath of office.

The third claimant of the place is Mr. Carr, the president of the Senate, who thinks that in the absence of a formal declaration of the vote he is entitled to take the office alike from the ex-Governor and the Governor-elect, there being no Lieutenant Governor in West Virginia.

Judge Fleming, the Democratic candidate for Governor, who also claims to have been elected, should have taken the oath of office also. A state which can stand a trio of Governors ought not to object to one more, and thus make it an even quartette.

A young girl at school wishes she could have two birthdays in every year; as she grows up she wishes she had but one birthday in every two years.

Things one would rather have left unsaid.—"You can't go home when it's raining like this. You'd better stay and have dinner with us." "Oh, it's not quite so bad as that."

"Prisoner, the evidence shows that you brutally assaulted the complainant. "Hav you anything to offer in extenuation?" Prisoner: "No, sir; my lawyer took all the money I had."

Convalescent youth: "I can't swaller dis tallow, mammy, 'deed I can't." Mother; "You'd better eat dat candle, you triflin' nigger! Ain't de doctor charged me ter keep you on a lig t diet?"

Dandykin (who has tried on a new suit and found it satisfactory]: "Aw—excuse me; I'll just step ovaw to the bank and c sh a check." His tailor: "Quite so; and if you'll excuse me I'll follow suit."

"Gentlemen of the jury!" said counsel in an agricultural case, "there were thirty-six hogs in that lot—thirty-six. I want you to remember that number—thirty-six hogs—just three times the number that there are in the jury-box."

Mendicant: "Please help a poor blind man?" Kind Old Lady: "Blind? Why, bless me, yes! There's a penny for you" Mendicant; "Thank ye, heartily, ma'am, I know'd the minit I see ye' comin' ye was a kind-hearted old 'ooman."

A wise Negro is quoted as saying; "Pears to me like dar was some kind of misdecomposishun in all dis talk about babies cuttin' de teef. De way I look at it, it's de teef cuttin' de baby. Leas' wise, dat's de way it looks in de case o' culled chil'en."

Mrs. Malaise: "Doctor, I beg you will not deceive me about my case. Believe me, I am prepared to hear the worst." Dr. Bismouth: "Well, then, madame, frankly—there is nothing the matter with you whatever. You should try some other scheme besides ill-health to excite sympathy."

Exceedingly Long Patient: "I say doctor, are you going to put that mustard plaster on my feet to draw the pain from my head?" Doctor: "Yes. Why?' Exceedingly Long Patient: "Well, I object. I'd rather have it where it is than drawn down through six feet and five inches of new territory."

Scene—Doctor's house. Little boy at the front door: "Is the doctor in? 'cause if he is, I want to see him at once." Servant: "He's not in." Little boy: "Well, jest as soon as he gets home, you tell him to come over to our house and take that baby away he left last week. It is certainly in the way."

They had been engaged to be married fifteen years, and still he had not mustered up courage enough to name the happy day. One evening he called, in a peculiar frame of mind and asked her to sing something tender and touching, something that would "move him." She sat down at the piano and sang 'Darling I am growing old.'

GIVE THE BOYS A CHANCE.

Another Contribution to the "News" by "Matthew Twain."

Copyrighted, 1889.

There is no subject so little understood as ours. The average small boy is a whole course of study in himself, and one in which no one graduates but the boy. There are only two things the ordinary boy needs to make his bliss complete, they are nothing to do and plenty of time to work at it.

He is Republican from principle and Democratic from necessity (like the two parties we mean) Republican, because he wants the W. S. and Democratic because he can't keep it when he gets it.

The boy as we find him to-day is somewhat of an improvement over the boy of fifty years ago for several reasons Then he knew less than his father, now he knows more; and then he wore out his fathers old clothes, now his father wears out his.

He knows more than his mother now and that was a very unusual occurrence fifty years ago. That is, he knows where he spends his evenings and his mother does not. In fact, there is mighty little the boy don't know. He is a regular walking encyclopedia of facts and a question that he cannot answer is one that no man would have the moral courage to ask.

His life is a regular fifteen cent mixture of bliss, sunshine and woe, and he never has any one of the ingredients long enough at a time to appreciate it. There is nothing so much needed and yet so much in the way when not needed as the boy. His sister does not want him around, his mother can get along better with out him and the only member of the family who could use him to an advantage is his father, and he can't find the boy. There is a great difference in boys. Some want everything, others want nothing, and a few don't know what they do want, and could not get it if they did. The original boy had every thing his own way until he ran the business into the ground by eating the wrong apple, and now every boy thinks he must have his own way at least as far as the apple is concerned, but the apple comes out ahead as a rule (at least when it is green.) One half of the parents never were boys, at least they don't remember of it if they were. We say one half because we do not want to be contradicted.

They do not know how to treat their boys. They growl and scold until they get the lads out of their sight and when they come back their father whips them for going.

Boys are not bad at heart. It is their nature to enjoy more scope for freedom than a little 10 by 12 kitchen will afford them, and if they cannot get it at home they will look elsewhere for this scope, and it is a rare case indeed when they do not find it. No man should be intrusted with the care and training of a boy unless he was a boy once himself. Yet to hear some fathers talk the boy is led to believe that as his father never was a boy he must have been an old woman or a baby, and no wonder they become alarmed for no boy would think of becoming a baby or an old woman either.

Parents, open your hearts and your parlors to your boys, and your purse too at least once a year. Even if you do not give your boy any cash it will cause him to respect you for what you do not give him.

Boys don't need money, certainly not. Their parents never did. But then you might let him look at a nickle sometimes and let him hold it a minute in his own hands. It is worth the effort on your part even if you must lock the door and box his ears to make him let loose when the minute is up. If you should feel able to give him a nickel once a year be sure to caution the boy not to squander it. Try and impress upon his youthful mind the necessity of looking out for a rainy day, persuade the lad to put the money in his bank and then you can take it out if you get hard up and pay him back the next year. A nickel in a boy's hand on the 4th of July is worth more to him than a thousand dollars in his imagination, for it will buy him a pack of snappers and the other won't.

Don't expect too much from your boys, father and mother. Look back twenty or thirty years and consider how much your parents could have expected from you at that time.

The Almighty intended boys to be just what they are. Of course, we suppose some deviate a little from the beaten path, but the immortal George did that even if he could not tell a lie about it at the time.

Your boys are no worse and perhaps not half so bad as some others, for one boy is generally as good as another and a great deal better. The writer was an example of this kind.

If you are farmers make your boy work and give him all the broken tools to mend him. When you hoe potatoes give him the broken hoe and then punish the lad because he can't keep up with you and the hired man.

Should you be a grocer don't ask him to pass by the box of raisins and eat dried peas just because they are cheaper Don't do this for it might be the means of creating within that boy such a taste for peas that the season could not supply.

If you are a minister of the gospel don't make him write your sermons and then punish him if he gets a line from the wrong column when copying points from Talmage.

If you are a member of church whip your boy until he promises to join. Then see that he keeps his word. All boys should be gotten into the church early, they make such strong pillars You know this by your own experience in joining the church. You remember you helped to keep your church from falling before you were sixteen.

If you are opposed to your boy gambling, burn his checkers and break the board and by so doing impress upon his mind the wickedness of playing checkers even if he does catch his death of cold out in the hay loft playing cards with a companion whose father thinks as you do upon the subject.

If you object to him becoming a drunkard don't keep cider in your own cellar for the boy, but let him buy it from your neighbor by the gallon as that way he will soon get enough, and who ever heard of a man getting drunk on cider after he had all he wanted?

Boys must be dealt with just as you think best. You are the Doctor, they are the patients. Don't humor their whims by telling them why such a thing is for the best. Just tell them you are their parents and supposed to know, Impress this upon their backs if you can't upon their hearts.

If you can get your boy to think as you do all will be right, and if you cannot. But oh of course you can Your father could and why can't you?

And now, mothers, when you go out on your charity expeditions or to the prohibition meetings shut your boys up in the kitchen or let them run out on the street. You wont be gone long and it would never do to let them in the parlor; they might spoil the carpet, and even if they did not you would not feel safe if you knew they were in there. Besides you would not enjoy the meeting; you would be uneasy about them all the time. When they are on the street you know they are safe as the policeman will look after them and bring them home if they get hurt.

Never mind the boys, they will get along, and after you have killed the great dragon, Alcohol, then it will be time enough to think of the boys.

And now if our methods of training suit you try them, if not try some other.

The surprise of Rip Van Winkle when awaking from his long slumber could not have been greater than the consumptive's upon finding himself entirely relieved by Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. 25c.

A pretty picture—A sunny-haired child curing the Newfoundler's cut foot with Salvation Oil.

—Invalid readers will find that one dollar expended for Dr. Parker's great medical work, the "Science of Life," will be of more value to them than ten thousand dollars expended for proprietary medicines, electric appliances, etc. The book contains over one hundred and twenty-five invaluable prescriptions for all diseases that human flesh is heir to. See advertisement.

Now, Give Attention.

To the purification of your blood, for at no season is the body so susceptible to the benefits to be derived from a good medicine, as in March, April and May. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the people's favorite spring medicine. It stands unequaled for purifying the blood, curing scrofula, salt rheum, etc., regulating the kidneys and liver, repairing nerve tissues, strengthening and invigorating the whole body, as well as checking the progress of acute and chronic disease, and restoring the afflicted parts to a natural healty condition. If you have never tried Hood's Sarsaparilla for your "spring medicine" do so this season.

—The buildings purchased by Kelly & O'Hara for their radiator manufactory are the very large machine shop and the foundry belonging to the car works and also the blacksmith shop. They have placed some very ponderous pieces of machinery in the former, and in the foundry they have already turned out one casting, which was for the purpose of testing the cupola.

—The two sermons delivered in the African M. E. church, on Sunday, by Rev. George G. Skinner, were very highly spoken of. Mr. Skinner has an excellent voice, as was evinced when he read the Scripture passages. It was a very great pleasure to hear him.

Among the many scattered remnants of nations in India there are few more interesting than the Beni-Israel of the Bombay side. The Beni-Israel do not belong to the lost tribes, nor have they any mysterious connection with the Great Pyramid. Their own legends aver that centuries ago their forefathers, flying by sea from a country in the north, where shipwrecked near Kenery Island, and the survivors, seven families, took refuge at Navgoan, homeless, penniless, among strangers, and without the books of their law. The date of this hegira is estimated from 1,600 to 2,000 years ago.

Since that date the little colony of fourteen souls has grown into a dispersed community of 10,000, not unlike the ordinary Konkan peasantry, but religiously observing the Jewish Sabbath and whatever they can remember of the Mosaical law. They have been hewers of wood and drawers of water to whatever king chanced to reign, but they are as much Hebrews to day as they were two centuries before Christ.

—Mr. H Y Stitzer showed to us on Tuesday morning a specimen of sandstone furnished by the Cleveland Stone Company, which was sent here for inspection previous to selecting material of which to erect their new church building. The stone is as white as marble, has a beautiful surface, is apparently easily worked and if used it would make a very beautiful structure. Of course, the expense is an important item to consider and we would recommend that some of our wealthy benevolent citizens inspect this handsome stone and if they are anxious that the new church shall be a model of beauty that they volunteer such contributions as they can afford toward the expense.

—It is reported that an extra train will be put on the Bald Eagle Valley Branch of the P. R. R., to run from Williamsport to Tyrone and stop at Lock Haven and Bellefonte, making connections with all early trains west. The time of its arrival here will be about 6 o'clock a. m., and returning get here about 4 o'clock p. m. If the train is put on it will be a great convenience.

Two great enemies—Hood's Sarsaparilla and impure blood. The latter is utterly defeated by the peculiar medicine.

—Out near the big spring several new business establishments are being put into operation. Among them is a machinist's supply house under the superintendence of Mr. William Hillibish. For that purpose he has erected a substantial structure and is thronged with orders for work. His well-known skill will make his enterprise successful.

—Did you know that the ladies now have pockets in the rear of their dress—just corresponding to the location of the gentlemen's hip pocket in which they sometimes carry their revolvers? Of course, you know it, because you know all about the styles. But we didn't know it until—recently.

—The Fleming base ball club will be in the field this year better and stronger than ever. The team intends giving a festival some time in the near future, the proceeds to be devoted to the equipment of the club. The new uniforms are expected to be silver gray, trimmed and lettered in maroon.

—On the fourth page of this paper today is published another article from the brilliant pen of "Matthew Twain," who is "Mark Twain's" twin brother. It is entitled "Give the Boys a Chance." The apt, terse sentences and original way of putting things with which the article is replete are certainly very attractive, and it seems to us that Matthew has all the genius of his brother We hope to hear from him again.

Faithful to His Trust.

Boston Post.

Not unfrequently I observe a dog standing guard over a horse while the master of the two animals makes a call at some down town place of business, but I seldom see the canine groom put in so unpleasant a situation or extricate himself so cleverly as he did in a case which I happened to witness lately. It was a cold day, and the dog, sitting on his haunches most of the time, changed his position pretty often, as one who found his seat uncomfortable, but he never for a moment took his eye from the horse. Presently the latter member of the party, which also began to find the weather a little chilly, started down the street at a fast walk.

This horrified the dog; he leaped and barked in front of the offender with great vehemence; but, failing to stop his companion in this manner, he ran up to a gentleman whom he observed on the sidewalk and then back to the horse. This he repeated two or three times, barking all the while, until his request was heeded, and the stranger led the horse back to his former place at the curbstone. The dog thanked the man with a wag of the tail, and resumed his seat on the sidewalk with an evident air of relief.

Mrs. Louise Godfrey

who resides on Spring street, Bangor, Me., has abiding faith in the virtues of Brown's Sarsaparilla, and has the best of reasons for it. Twelve years ago she had a severe illness, and from the lack of proper treatment a scrofulous abcess formed, and although for a number of years it was not particularly troublesome, three years ago it began to discharge causing her a great deal of annoyance and apprehension. This continued for two years when she began the use of Brown's Sarsaparilla. One bottle stopped the discharge and four completed a cure, and this is why she

Has Faith

in Brown's Sarsaparilla. Again showing what a deadly foe Brown's Sarsaparilla is to all forms of scrofula, Mr. F A Bishop, of the firm of Kimball & Bishop, doing business at Hermon, Me., says: "I began taking Brown's Sarsaparilla for indigestion, when, to my intense surprise, a tumor which had troubled me for more than five years, coming out on my shoulder blade so I could not lay back in my chair without causing me great pain, began to grow smaller and smaller until it has entirely disappeared. My stomach trouble left me and I am a well man owing to the wonderful curative powers of

The New Radiator Works.

"Kelly & O'Hara "Victor" Steam and Hot Water Positive Circulating Radiator" is the name given to the product of the new manufactory located in what was formerly the Bellefonte Car Works, and which commodious buildings will now be utilized for this purpose Of the new company P J Kelly is President, Arthur J Brown Vice President, Edward Brown, Jr, Secretary and Treasuer, and Thomas W. O'Hara General Superintendent and Manager.

The "Victor" radiator is constructed in sections, each consisting of one or more inverted U shaped tubes and a hollow base, the interior of the latter being divided into compartments corresponding and connecting with the ends of each tube. The whole is cast in the piece and capable of being so joined together that either steam or hot water may be transmitted in a direct and continuous current from the point where it is received from the supply pipe, throughout each tube and its base, and from one tube and section to another in succession, until it reaches the point of discharge, from whence it may be conducted to other radiators, and finally, if desired, back to the boiler. The inlet and outlet are tapped the same size so that the steam may be conducted from one radiator to another in succession, when it is so desired (something impossible in all other radiators) consequently a very great saving in piping is gained.

By this means there is secured an actual continuous circulation of the heating agent, the importance of which is well understood by every person acquainted with the subject, and which is not secured in any other radiator known.

Provision is made for the collection and carrying off the water formed by condensation, by channels through the base when steam is used, by which means the water is prevented from following or obstructing the course of the steam through the tubes.

The advantages claimed for the "Victor" over all other radiators are—

First, Its adaptation equally to the use of steam or hot water.

Second. Its greater promptitude of action in consequence of the brief time for the heating agent to pervade the whole radiator, it being forced in rapid succession through all the tubes and every part of the radiator, neccessarily carrying before it and finally expelling all resisting cold air. All other radiators in which steam is used constitute a mere reservoir where first the cold air is held until slowly heated, and then steam itself is retained in stationary condition until condensed into water.

Third. Its greater continued energy of action, because of the rapid transmission of the heating agent through all parts of the radiator, by reason of which the latter may be kept constantly filled with steam and water heated to a high degree. By this means also a greater amount of heating power is retained in proportion to the amount of heating surface.

Fourth. The increased facility by which the water of condensation is expelled.

Fifth. Greater quantity of heating capacity with less fuel.

Sixth. It takes less floor space than any other giving like amount of heating surface.

A Big Business Enterprise.

From the Bloomsburg Columbian.

Colonel James Corcoran, of Williamsport, Wilson Kistler, of Lock Haven, and W. H. Lind, of Clearfield county, are about to erect a large tannery at the mouth of Blackberry Run at Jameson City. This company proposes to erect three buildings, one 700 feet in length, with a wing extending 400 feet, another 60 by 120 feet, for the purpose of storing hides and leather; also a leech house 40 by 60 feet. There will be in the building eight boilers and three engines. When completed and stocked with leather and hides the building will cost $300,000 and the tannery will have a capacity of 15,000 cords of bark per year. For the entire work they will occupy 30 acres of ground.

The hauling and pealing bark in connection with the tannery, will take about 500 laborers. As it is not the intention of the company to erect any dwelling houses, and the accommodation of these laborers and their families will require a large number of tenant houses, the building of these houses will be a good speculation for capitalists.

—The large tannery of Jacob Elenger, located about three miles east of Lewistown, says a dispatch to the Altoona Tribune, caught fire from the smoke stack on Saturday afternoon and in a few minutes thereafter the entire building and adjoining bark sheds were entirely consumed. The loss will reach $8,000. Several hundred tons of bark was burned, also hides and machinery. There was $1,200 insurance on the building in the Farmers, of York; $800 in the American, of Philadelphia, and $2,000 in the Farmers Mutual of Danville.

—Let all intelligent office boys read this and take warning: Andrew Carnegie, the millionaire iron-founder says that he began his business career by sweeping out an office, and that his fellow-sweepers were David McCargo, now President of the Allegheny Valley Railroad; Robert Pitcairn Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and Mr. Moreland, City Attorney of Pittsburg.

—A Convention of Nailers, representing Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey, was held in Harrisburg, Pa., on Friday night. The general sentiment was that the present scale of wages is not too high and delegates resolved to assist all their brother nailers who at this time are resisting a reduction.

An honest indifference to many prevailing complaints is the result of using Laxador. For sale by all druggists. Price only 25 cents a package.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines. Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom. Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's. Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered." Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

WHAT MR H I BUDD, CORRESPONDING SECRETARY OF THE BURLINGTON COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY, HAS TO SAY ABOUT THE MICROBE KILLER.

MOUNT HOLLY, Feb. 17, 1889.

RADAM'S MICROBE KILLER CO.

GENTLEMEN:—Until persuaded by a regular practicing physician, last October, to try William Radam's Microbe Killer, I had experimented with many different kinds of patent medicines, and had placed myself under treatment from several of our most noted physicians, in addition to which I visited many of the consumptive health resorts of the country, all in a vain search for relief from an inherited tendency to pulmonary disease, aggravated by attacks of pneumonia, congestion and inflamation. In sheer despair I tried your remedy, but shall ever bless the doctor who recommended it, for I am now ent rely free from the racking cough that made life miserable; am improving in health and rapidly gaining in strength. My friends are so surprised at my improved condition that they almost weary me relating the story of my cure. I have suffered so much and seen so much suffering from this fatal disease that I feel it my duty to advise all to try what I believe has proved my salvation. Sincerely yours,

H I BUDD.

The Coroner's Verdict.

After convening twice, the Coroner's jury, in the case of the murder of Philip Paul, the Renovo policeman, gave the following verdict:

"That the said Philip Paul came to his death on the 13th day of March, A. D., 1889, from a pistol shot wound in the back of the head so inflicted on the 12th day of March, A. D. 1889, in the said Borough of Renovo, between the hours of eleven and twelve o'clock at night by a bullet, feloniously and with malice aforethought, fired by the hands of one Charles Cleary, from a pistol or revolver, than and there in the hands of the said Charles Cleary, of the same borough, county and State.

Which bullet so fired and which pistol or revolver so discharged by the said Charles Cleary was done felonously and with intent to murder and kill the same Philip Paul."

Blind for Eleven Days.

Mrs. J. T. Love of Leesburg, Ga., widow of an eminent and successful physician, says under date of Sept. 20, 1888: My husband in a large and lucrative practice used Swift's Specific, and with it restored to health many persons in whose cases all other medicines proved useless. One young man who had been treated for six years for blood poison, his condition had gradually grown worse, and got to be horrible. He was helpless for twelve months and blind for eleven days. His case seemed incurable. But he was cured sound and well by S. S. S., and to-day is a strong and healthy man.

Permanent.

At the time I began taking S. S. S. my body and arms were almost one solid sore, and I had been taking medicine for twenty-six years to cure blood poison. In less than thirty days my skin had all cleaned off, and I was a well man.

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

MESSRS. PROCTER & GAMBLE, CINCINNATI, O.

GENTLEMEN:—Although a stranger to you, and my testimonial entirely unnecessary, as it certainly is unsolicited, yet I take great pleasure in testifying to the excellence of your IVORY SOAP, and thanking you for putting it on the market at so low a price.

It has entirely supplanted the use of Castile and other fine soaps in my household for several years past, being in no way inferior and from fifty to seventy-five per cent. more economical.

A good test I find for the purity of a soap is to try it with a brush for cleansing the teeth, and the taste of the Ivory so used is perfectly sweet and clean.

Very Respectfully Yours, W. S. BAKER, M.D.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

Bill Nye ought to have a garden and grow fruits, so as to tone up his system and give us some real funny wit, for everybody who knows how to loves to laugh. We suggest that he subscribe for The American Garden of New York. Then we should have a rest from his literature for a while, for William would get so interested in this new world of nature in the fruits, flowers and vegetables, trees and shrubs under his hand, as to forget his whilom occupation, become a new man and eventually write some stories and paragraphs worth the reading. Those who want to follow this advice to Bill Nye may write and ask E. H. LIBBY, New York, about his AMERICAN GARDEN magazine.

MONEY IN THE BACKYARD—All readers of this paper who live on a farm or have a backyard in the village, want to make money and can do it if they go at it right. There is probably nothing else on which so much money can be made with a small space of ground than by attention to poultry, and it don't need to interfere with your other business. In a small town in New Jersey (Hammonton) thousands of dollars are laid by from the sale of poultry. One man with less than an eighth of an acre of ground, annually clears over $1000; but, of course, he makes it his only business. There are 40 broiler farms there, the whole work being inaugurated by P. H. Jacobs, of the POULTRY KEEPER, who lives at Hammonton. Now to do these things, you must study the question in all its phases and know what others have done and are doing, and to do this there is probably no better or more complete way than to read the POULTRY KEEPER which is acknowledged to be the leading poultry paper of the world, being read by many thousands of people. It is published monthly, at only 50 cents a year by the Poultry Keeper Co., Parkersburg Chester Co., Pa., and you can get a sample copy, free, by writing a postal card to them. It is filled full up with the experiences of those who are making the business a success. Tells how to make and manage incubators brooders; how to build poultry houses; how to take care of poultry, how to cure diseases; how to preserve eggs; and has special articles on ducks, geese, turkeys, with hundreds of illustrations. Even the sample copy you will receive will be worth a dollar. Try it. Sample copy free to all by addressing as above.

A Hundred Tons of Money

It hardly seems possible that the money paid in one month for a ten-cent article, could, if pennies were used in payment, weigh one hundred tons. Yet one of our bright school boys has figured that this is true of Diamond Dyes. To judge from the stocks of our dealers in dye stuffs, Diamond Dyes own the field of package dyes, and are a complete success Of course they have imitators. "Nothing is a success until imitated." But no one wants to risk a counterfeit when the genuine can be obtained at the same price. Three new colors have lately been added to the list of Diamond Dyes: Fast Stocking Black, Turkey Red for Cotton, and Brown for Cotton. The manufacturers, Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt., will send colored samples of these new dyes, with book of directions, to any address, free of charge, These additions seem to have made the line so complete that any shade can be matched with some color of Diamond Dyes. The beautiful sample book of shaded colors, lately sent to all dealers in dyes, will delight the eye of any lady. "It's easy to dye with Diamond Dyes," is so absolutely true that home dyeing is no longer a disagreeable task. Almanacs, with their hints as to proper times for different work, tell us that now is the time for Spring dyeing. This together with the thought o that hundred tons of money, leads us to ask what school boy can figure how many tho sands of ladies are now saying that this is the time to use Diamond Dyes?

TWO BRILLIANT COMPOSITIONS.

"Dance of the Shepherds," gazotte by W. F. Fenimore, price 50 cents, and "If Needs Must Be," a ballad by Frederic Corbett, price 75 cent, are the titles of two new compositions recently issued by F. A. North & Co., music publishers, 1308 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. "If Needs Must Be" is a charming ballad, suitable for voices of medium range, written in the modern English school The accompaniment is full and and of great assistance to the voice. It has been sung with great success by many leading vocalists on the concert stage, and in Philadelphia has become a parlor favorite. "The Dance of the Shepherds" is a delightful gavotte for players of average ability. It is of exquisite beauty, and through its cross-hand passages gives an opportunity for an unusual amount of technical skill. Both compositions bear attractive titles and are produced in North & Co's usually neat and tasty style, and will undoubtedly become the favorites of the season. As a means of introduction Messrs. North & Co. will send both compositions to one address on receipt of 50 cents.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY will have a Congressional poem in the March Century entitled "Down to the Capitol."

Dr. Edward Eggleston reviews James Bryce's "American Commonwealth" in the forthcoming March Century under the title of "A Full-Length Potrait of the United States."

JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS has contributed to St. Nicholas a story called "Daddy Jake, the Runaway," which will begin in the March number and continue through three issues. The last installment is said to contain one of the best of Mr. Harris's "Uncle Remus" stories. The March St. Nicholas will have a paper by Mrs. Burton Harrison on "Washington as an Athlete."

"Stanley was born in Wales, near the little town of Denbigh, and his parents were so poor that when he was about three years old he was sent to the poorhouse of St. Asaph to be brought up and educated. When he was thirteen years old he was turned loose to do for himself. Young though he was, he was ambitious and well informed. As a lad, he taught school in the village of Mold, Flintshire, North Wales. Getting tired of this, he made his way to Liverpool. England, when he was about fourteen years of age, and there he shipped as cabin boy on board a sailing vessel bound to New Orleans, in the promised land to which so many British-born youths ever turn their eyes. In New Orleans he fell in with a kindly merchant, a Mr. Stanley, who adopted him and gave him his name for our young hero's real name was John Rowlands, and he was not Stanley until he became an American, as you see. Mr. Stanley died before Henry came of age, leaving no will, and the lad was again left to take care of himself. Young Stanley lived in New Orleans until 1861, when he was twenty one years old, having been born in 1840. Then the great Civil War broke out, and Stanley went into the Confederate Army.

A hitherto unpublished chapter in the life of Edgar Allan Poe will appear in HARPER'S MAGAZINE for March The old lady who was the heroine of this early love episode of the poet's gave Mr Augustus Van Cleef permission to write down and publish her reminiscences of it provided her identity should not be revealed. She declared that the portrait of the poet which is reproduced in this number of HARPER'S was "the best one she had ever seen, and had his expression." She died in the West in 1887, over seventy years.

TABLE TALK for March is out with a bright, new cover—an improvement, certainly, in its outward appearance. Within, we find everything cheerful as usual, with enough gastronomic daintiness to whet our appetite to the proper edge for the coming meal. We notice that it opens with a poetical twelve-line sermon, by Joseph Whitton, on Content—A "Sweet Maid" indeed, and one we should all like to nestle in our bosom, if Mr. W. would kindly tell us how to go about it; it may be an easy enough task for poets who are always reminding us that "Man wants but little here below" and, who as a rule, succeed in getting it But all men, unfortunately, are not poets, and if they don't get from the world more than a little, will give the world more than a little growling. There is a great deal, however, underlying the precepts of TABLE TALK to make a man contented, for which we thank it. Mrs. Rorer is a practical woman and an experienced teacher in her art, and if the world, generally, would read her sparkling magazine, follow her advice and practice her recipes, it would probably have less dyspepsia and consequently a great deal more content than it is now blessed with. Published by the TABLE TALK PUBLISHING Co., 462, 464 & 466 Race St., Philadelphia, $1.50 a year 10c. single copy.

The April number of The Century will be devoted largely to celebrating the Centennial of the Inauguration of Washington in New York, April 30, 1789. The contents of the number will include "The Inauguration of Washington," by Clarence W. Bowen, illustrated with views of New York in 1789, the reception at Trenton, portraits, etc; "Washington at Mt. Vernon After the Revolution," by Mrs Burton N. Harrison, with a number of interesting illustrations, and "Washington in New York in 1788," by the same author, "Original Portraits of Washington," by Charles Henry Hart, and "A Century of Constitutional Interpretation," by Prof. John Bach Mc Master. Mrs. Harrison's articles are devoted to the social aspect of the subject, and she will describe New York society at the time of the first President. A hundred illustrations will appear in this number of The Century.

THE NEW YORK GRAPHIC has been recently purchased and completely reorganized as a vigorously Republican newspaper. It is said that Senator Quay, S. B. Elkins and other prominent Republicans are concerned in the reorganization of THE GRAPHIC. If so THE GRAPHIC is surely going to become a power in the Republican party, and already shows wonderful improvement.

We will furnish this paper and the Republican, both for $2.00 (the price of either paper alone) this is the best offer ever made in this county.

GEORGE KENNAN'S next article in The Century will be an episode of his Siberian journey, and will have nothing to do with the exiles. Mr. Kennan had a very strange and amusing experience which he will describe in this article, viz. A visit to one of the Grand Lamas of Asia. The Grand Lama of Thibet is the one best known to the world, but there is also a Grand Lama in the Trans Baikal—one whom no European is known to have visited in sixty years except Mr. Kennan Mr. Kennan exchanged photographs with this Incarnation of the divine, and the portrait of the old dignitary will form the frontispiece of the March Century.

Jack Dempsey, the champion middleweight-pugilist with a company of athletes, are touring this part of the State. They appeared in the Houtzdale Opera House on Monday evening.

We offer in this week's issue a combination that should attract every intelligent reader in the county—a combination that has never been equalled in this or any other county, for cheapness, and one which is made at a great sacrifice to ourselves. THE COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE is one of the brightest, most varied and best edited of all the magazines in the world. It will give in a year 1200 pages of reading by the ablest writers, illustrated by the cleverest artists living. Again let us assure you this is not an every day offer. We offer you the lowest priced illustrated magazine in the world, yet of the highest class and character, in combination with the REPUBLICAN, at a price for both hardly over the price of the magazine alone. Send us $2.50 and get the best paper in the county and the best magazine in the world. Address REPUBLICAN, Bellefonte, Pa.

AFTER THE INAUG.

Our Snow Shoe Correspondent Tells her Inaugural Experience in Rhyme and Gives all the other News.

I thought it my duty to drop you a line
Since I from the Inaug came back.
I've spoiled my handsome crinoline
And ruined my sealskin sacque.

I met a Washingtonian swell
And many a handsome fellow;
The saddest thing I have to tell—
I lost my silk umbrella.

In rain and mud—a plenty of both—
A ten dollar hat on my head,
I saw old Benjamin take the oath
And heard every word he said.

I saw men faint and fall to the ground,
But not a woman complained,
They seemed to enjoy being hugged all round
No matter how hard it rained.

On Monday night I went to the ball,
But this you must not menetion.
There wasn't a woman in Pension Hall
Received so much attention.

My low-neck gown with handsome folds,
Together with pink complexion;
Barring some warts and a couple of moles—
Imagine such perfection.

I'm happy to say I waltzed with Quay
And marched with Wanamaker;
I danced a quadrille with Buffalo Bill,
Who looks much like a Quaker.

Benjamin Harrison winked at me—
The Plumed Knight smiled all over;
I made a mash on Levi P.,
And broke the heart of Grover.

Mr. William Holt of Columbus, Ohio, visited his mother last week.

Mr. Frank Pile, of Bellefonte, is visiting his Snow Shoe friends. Frank has had a very severe spell of sickness. We hope the healthy climate of Snow Shoe will soon restore him to health again.

A certain young man in Philipsburg is trying to cheat a Snow Shoe girl out of her gold watch. The girl is poor and works out by the week for her living. He obtained the watch through the pretense that he would get it fixed, and the young lady has not seen nor heard tell of her watch since. If that young man does not return her watch soon be will certainly be arrested. Philipsburg papers please copy.

Deafness Can't be Cured.

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube be restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we can not cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

—We believe that this is the third year which Rev. Mr. Sarvis has been at Pleasant Gap and he may go elsewhere after conference, though the church at Pleasant Gap will endeavor to retain him. The reverend gentleman has been wonderfully useful since he began his work there. Scores of people have been converted and the congregations strengthened by him. It has never been our privilege to hear Rev. Sarvis preach and though we desired to we never had the courage to ask him to come around and deliver a sermon for our especial benefit. But we have heard many testimonials as to his pulpit power and eloquence, we know him personally and are so much pleased with him that we unite with the congregation in the hope that he may remain where he is.

THE POSTMASTER,

Winchester, Mass., says, I am personally acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Carleton, and was astonished at the remarkable effects of your Sulphur Bitters in curing their son, and its large sale is undoubtedly due to the fact that it is an honest medicine. I know of many others who have been cured by its use, and I do not think too much can be said in its praise.

Yours truly, GEO P BROWN, P M

—William Howard, of Williamsport, owns nineteen thousand acres of land in Potter and Clinton counties, and proposes to build a standard gauge railroad from North Bend to Potter county for the purpose of getting out his timber. After the timber is taken off the land he will survey it into farms and organize a colony.

A Terrible Misfortune.

It is a calamity of the direct kind to feel that one's physical energies are failing in the prime of life to feel more nerveless, more dispirited, weaker every day. Yet this is the unhappy lot of hundreds who surround us. A source of renewed strength which science approves, in behalf of which multitudes of the debilitated have and are every day testifying, and which, in countless instances, has built up constitutions sapped by weakness and infirmity and long unbenefitted by other means, surely commends itself to all who need a tonic. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is such a medicine—pure, bontanic, soothing to the nerves, promotive of digestion and a fertilizer of the blood. Dyspepsia and nervousness—the first a cause, the second a consequence of lack of stamina—depart when a course of the Bitters is tried. All forms of malarial disease, rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble, constipation and biliousness are annihilated by this standard family medicine.

Let Her Use It.

The subjoined paragraph from the Daily Herald of Tyrone expresses our sentiments, for we really consider the bustle all right—in its place:

"Every day or two one of our exchanges shows symptoms of a too great interest in something that is beyond the power of man to fool with. We refer to the bustle which is the most prominent part of the female wearing apparel. The bustle is all right in its place and shouldn't give newspaper writers so much trouble. It is a positive necessity to women and she should be permitted to keep it, to wag it, to sit on it or wear it lopsided just as it suits her peculiar fancy and that too without so much newspaper gush."

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this receipt, in German, French or English with full directions for preparing and using. Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alterative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle at W. C. Death of Mr. Abraham Florey.

At 5 o'clock last Thursday Mr. Abraham Florey, an aged resident of this place, died at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Puff, on Half Moon hill. Mr. Florey was born in this state on the 20th of July, 1803, making his age 85 years, 5 months and 24 days. Funeral services were held over the remains at the home of Mr. Puff at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning and he was taken to Centre Hall for interment. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Sarvis.

Dr. Theel, the great Specialist, for nervous debility, blood poisons, kidney and special diseases, has yet to find an equal in curing such diseases. He has complete mastery of the allopathic, homœopathic and eclectic systems of medicines which gives him the knowledge and ability to cure diseases pronounced incurable by leading physicians. If suffering we would advise you to consult him personally or by letter, at 538 North Fourth St., Philadelphia, Pa.

A Quartette Concert.

It was our great pleasure on Wednesday evening last, as we passed up Bishop street, to hear several very familiar songs rendered by a female quartette of unusual ability. We have since ascertained that school teachers and organists compose this quartette. The Swedish singers who visited our town a short time ago sink into insignificance in the presence of these Bellefonters.

It is the intention of this quartette to give a public entertainment in the near future.

Coal Oil or Petroleum.

Naphtha (Petroleum) is derived from the Persian word Napata, to exude, and was originally applied to an inflamable liquid hydrocarbon (or rather a mixture of several hydrocarbons) which exudes from the soil in certain parts of Persia.

The term is, however, now used not only to designate a similar and almost identical fluid that issues from the ground in many parts of the world, and is known as petroleum, rock oil, etc., but is also applied to other liquids, which resemble true napatha in little else than in their volatility.

Native petroleum or rock oil is found in many parts of the world, as in Japan, Burmah, Persia. The shores of the Caspian sea, Siberia, Italy, France and North America. It is of various degrees of consistency, from a thin light colorless fluid found in Persia to a substance as thick as butter and nearly as heavy as water. Bnt all kinds when rectified have nearly the same constitution. They contain no oxygen, and consist of carbon and hydrogen only. From a very early period in Persia and Japan native naphtha has been used to burn in lamps. Prominent among the wonders of our time however, as regards new fields of industry and wealth, stand the discoveries of petroleum fields of the United States principally in our State of Pennsylvania some of these sources of native naphtha were known to the Indians, by whom it was at one time collected for sale; but it is only about thirty years since by sinking deep wells, the great extent of oil bearing strata becomes known. Other regions in North America produce it but our Pennsylvania fields yields six or seven times as much as all the rest put together. It was known to the Jesuit Missionaries in 1627 as a natural curiosity, and was spoken of in the 18th century as seneca oil, from the Seneca Indians in New York, who kindled it in their religious ceremonies. Much curiosity exists in relation to the origin of these great sources of petroleum. It seems to be the general opinion of geologists that it has in most cases been produced by the decomposition of both vegetable and animal matter. It would appear that the oil in our state proceeds from shales of carboniferous age; the Canadian from those of devonian age. In both places the oil is found in cavities in sand stone, and has therefore been derived from subjacent rocks. It is now known that this oil has formed in rocks of nearly all geological ages. In 1859 the first oil wells were bored in our state, and that year 82,000 barrels were produced. In 1861 two million barrels; and in 1879 six hundred million gallons. The year before the value of the product experted was $46,000,000. This great wealth has come to us within the memory of young men of our times. We keep at the Eureka Grocery two qualities of this product one we designate coal oil which is of 120 degrees heat test, and the other is Head Light, both of these brands are perfectly safe, will not explode under any heat that they would be subjected to in common use. There is however four cents difference in the price. Our oil is the very best in the market. This is all we need to say about Eureka oil, as we have so often told you before, a full line of all kinds of Groceries, fresh and new. We are receiving new supplies every day, and as fast as we learn there is a demand for anything that we may not have we get it. We are determined to keep what the people want, and to sell it as low as anyone else can. We defy competition as to quality or price.

A Clarion County Crank.

A 30-year old man from Clarion county, this State, has been acting strangely in Washington this week and was arrested on the charge of vagrancy. He claims he is "Uncle Sam," but when asked his name, gave it as Benjamin Shirry. He spent the nights at the night lodging house, and during the day he visited the Departments. He got through all right until he visited the White House. There he attempted to assert his rights, and declared his intention of going upstairs for his clothes. He also wanted to see three of his lady friends, Misses Connors, Hughes and Finley, who he said were there from Clarion county. He says he knows them well, and cannot understand why he was prevented from going upstairs.

He takes no notice whatever of the President, but is especially interested in the ladies. He knows that Mrs. Cleveland has left the White House, but denies that Mrs. Harrison has yet arrived there. When informed that he had been given 60 days on the farm, he anxiously inquired how he could send word ty his lady friends. He was told that he could call at the end of two months, but one of the colored prisoners informed him that he would then get another two months. The good-natured prisoner remarked that by that time he would be in Europe.

—The individuals who send dispatches from Bellefonte announcing strikes at the manufacturing institutions here are greatly mistaken and are doing the town an injury. For instance, the last time there was a temporary cessation of work at the nail works a dispatch appeared in the Altoona Tribune announcing that it was because of a reduction of wages. This was not true, because the men did not refuse to work because of a reduction. On Wednesday a dispatch in the Williamsport Gazette & Bulletin announced a strike at the furnace of the Centre Furnace Company because of a reduction of 10 per cent in wages. This also is a mistake, as the only reason the men did not work on Thursday, the 14th, was because some of the machinery was out of order and repairs were necessary.

By a strict party vote the Senate of New Jersey agreed on Friday to repeal the Local Option law in that State. The Democrats there are keeping the pledges which were made to the saloonkeepers last autumn. The indications are that they will wipe out all the temperance legislation which the Republicans have placed upon the statute book of New Jersey.

Full Description of the Wedding of Emma A. Leathers and William H. Gardner.

A correspondent at Mountain Eagle, under date March 7, writes us—There was a large gathering of friends and invited guests at the home of Ira C. Leathers at Walker, this county, on the 28th of February. The occasion was that of the marriage of his daughter Emma A. Leathers to William H. Gardner, of Beech Creek. The bride is an estimable young lady and the groom a worthy young man.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. W. Headley, of Pittston, who is now teaching at Mt. Eagle, and preaching for the Christian church at Howard. After the short and appropriate ceremony the guests were invited to a bountiful repast. The table was most beautifully arranged and was indeed an honor to the taste of Mrs. Leathers, who is famous as a good cook. We hope that the groom may live long and happily.

Mr. Samuel Wirts, of this place, was recently visiting friends in Mill Hall.

PECK'S BAD BOY.

—Here is a note worth considering by some of the restless ones of Bellefonte and Centre county who always see some beautiful Eldorado away off where money can be made "so easy," where the "streets are paved with gold." It is said that eastern people have in the last two years paid $44 000,000 for about $4,000,000 worth of property in and about Los Angelos, California, and have greatly benefited those who sold and now have property that will be theirs till it is sold for taxes or given away. Nothing like rushing with the rushers and busting with the busters for the benefit of the boomers. "Do you see it?"

A Beautiful Desk.

The young gentlemen who gave the mock court the other evening purchased a handsome writing desk with the proceeds which they have placed in the new room of the Y. M. C. A. It is very excellently adapted for the purpose, and anyone who desires a quiet, pleasant place in which to write a letter can find it there. In view of its beauty and utility, the Association feels itself deeply indebted to Messrs. Speer and Miller and very cordially extends its thanks.

TWO DEATHS OF YOUNG PEOPLE.

MRS. CHARLES RODGERS.

It was on Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock that Mrs. Charles Rodgers, of this place, sank into that sleep which has its waking beyond the grave. Her disease was neuralgia of the heart. Her death seems peculiarly sad. She was the bride of only a few months, and had just entered into the full realization of the highest part of life. To be thus parted from her young husband must be a sore trial to him. She was Miss Josephine Roan, of Coleville. She was laid to rest on Thursday attended by many friends.

GERTRUDE MAY HOLT, OF MOSHANNON.

DIED—After a few days illness, Gertrude May, youngest child of Hon. J. H. and Leticia T. Holt, of Moshannon, Centre county, Pa. The deceased was a bright and lively girl, the idol of her parents and the pet of the household. She was admired and loved by both old and young. She was a child of the covenant, trained in the fear of God by a devoted Christian mother, and though called so suddenly yet was prepared, for previous to her sickness, she had made a profession of Christ as her Saviour and rejoiced in the hope of eternal life. She looked forward to a happy meeting with the loved ones who had gone before, and left for the consolation of the sorrowing and bereaved the hope that she sleeps in Jesus. She was born June 25th, 1877, and died the 2d of March, 1889. The parents and family have the deep sympathy of a large circle of friends. Funeral services were conducted at the parental home on the 4th of March, by Rev. H. B. Scott, of Snow Shoe.

The Murdered Policeman.

The murderer of Policeman Phil Paul in Renove on Tuesday night was Chas. Cleary of that place. The young man was being taken to the lock-up by the policeman. While the policeman was unlocking the door, Cleary shot him in the head and he lived only two hours after the wound was inflicted.

The murder is the more atrocious from the fact that the policeman has always treated the young man with extreme kindness. On previous occasions when the young man was drunk and quarrelsome Policeman Paul took him home, when he should have been placed in the lockup.

Cleary ran away, but was captured at Emporium, being recognized by the men on the train on which he was traveling. He was brought to Lock Haven on Thursday morning by Detective Vernes, of Renovo, Sheriff Leahy and Chief of Police Chatham, of Lock Haven. He was placed in the cell occupied by Luther Shaffer, the murderer executed several months ago.

The youth was handcuffed, and was evidently frightened. His trial will likely take place at the May term of court.

The other two, Dave Belford and Charley Sloan, arrested as accessories, are still in the lockup at Renovo.

—The murder of Policeman Paul at Renovo furnishes another argument in favor of the Prohibition Amendment to stop the manufacture and sale of the stuff which causes such crimes. Charles Cleary, the murderer, was a young man belonging to a respectable family. He was intemperate and when he committed the deed was on one of his regular "sprees." Phil Paul, the murdered policeman, was a popular and faithful officer—tall, handsome and athletic. He sympathised with the frailties of the young man and had often condoned his fault. But on this occasion was about to place him in the lockup, when Cleary, with all his passions aroused by strong drink and common sense stolen from his brain, sent a cruel ball crashing through the policeman's head. Was this because Cleary is worse than hundreds of other young men? No; there are perhaps hundreds in every town as bad as he, whom Providence has mercifully prevented from committing a great crime. We can trace it to no other source than that vile stuff which deprives men of every noble quality and changes them into fiends. Can it be that there are good, law-abiding people—professing Christians—who will discourage an attempt to stamp out this vile stuff? To believe that there are, is almost to believe that all professions of morality and excellence are mere hypocritical shams. The voice of the suffering widow and orphan, the voice of honor and decency cry out for the suppression of the sale of liquor. The opportunity to vote for the Amendment next June is the supreme opportunity of a life-time. A vote for it will do more practical temperance than 50,000 loud-mouthed professions possibly could do.

—To a lady who said she would buy a tooth brush if she could be sure the bristles would not come out after being used two or three times, the dealer said: "I will tell you a story about that matter. These brushes have been in the case for a long time. Now, when you buy one take it home and put it in water for an hour or two before you use it. The bristles are dry, and are apt to come out when they are used. Always remember that when you buy a tooth brush."

—The end of this week will be the middle of Lent.

—The free school book bill should pass the Legislature.

—Mrs. Kane, of East Howard street, is moving to Altoona.

—The tender green sprouts are putting in appearance above ground.

—New members were received into the Methodist church on Sunday morning.

—This fine weather has the effect of bringing out the corner statuary in full force.

—There will be no license applications in the Huntingdon county court this year.

—Goodrich's hotel at Point Lookout, near Philipsburg, caught fire twice in less than a week.

—Last week was a great one for photographers and about twenty dozen photos each day was the average.

—We observe with regret a tendency among the young ladies to reduce the proportions of their bustles.

—The boys are commencing to hunt up their base balls and bats preparatory to inaugurating the base ball season.

—Fogg says that some of the people on the theatrical stage remind him of his liver, because they don't act worth a cent.

—The age of fresh paint, paper, etc., is at hand and we notice that Mr. S. H. Williams and his workmen are very busy.

—Mr. J. C. Weaver. the insurance agent, has already moved into his new office—the one vacated by R. M. Magee, Esq.

—The meetings now held in the Y. M. C. A. hall are interesting and all young men should attend on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

—Miss Maggie Morgan, daughter of Mr. Richard Morgan, after a long illness, was reported better on Tuesday than she had been for two or three days previous.

—If a fifteen year-old boy smokes thirty cigarettes per day for a year, how much will the remainder of his life spent in an insane asylum, cost? Figure it out for yourself.

—Mr. Cal. Harper is about disposing of his residence to R. M. Magee, Esq., and will erect another smaller house which will be quite a beautiful specimen of architecture.

—Prohibition socities are being organized all over the country. Keep the ball rolling, for it will require steady, active and persistent work until the polls close on the 18th of June.

—Here after, do not say "I am not built that way" as it is slang. The Boston way to express the same thought is to say "I am not constructed according to those plans and specifications."

—Rev. Dr. Laurie officiated on Tuesday at the funeral of Mr. Isaac Lose. The pall bearers were Messrs. W. T. Speer, George Bayard, Robert McKnight, John B. Linn, Lingle, Tripple, and Harper.

MUSIC AT THE STATE COLLEGE.

THE VERY FINE CONCERT GIVEN BY THE GLEE CLUB LAST FRIDAY EVENING.

On Friday night the Glee club of the State College assisted by the Banjo club gave the first concert of their season, in the remodeled College chapel. It was the occasion of the opening of the chapel to the public. Great changes have been made at State College during the past few months, and there has been no greater change and no more marked improvement than the refitting of the Chapel. It occupies the whole of the first and second floors of the central wing of the main building; the entrance is on the ground floor. The second floor is taken out entirely, which makes a beautiful room, thirty feet high, about a hundred feet long and fifty feet wide. The seats rise toward the rear of the room and a gallery surrounds the whole room, affording in all a seating capacity of about 1000. The room is beautifully painted in very light terra cotta and pink and the walls are hung with heavy felt paper of a very faint olive tint, the combination of colors being remarkably good. The seats are the latest improved opera chairs. To thoroughly appreciate the comfort of these one must have experienced the torture of sitting for two or three hours at commencement time on the straight backed, cushionless, benches that filled the old Chapel.

The College people are to be congratulated on this lovely and very appropriate auditorium which they have for public exercises in the future.

To the Glee club fell the honor of the first public performance in this beautiful room, and they gave an entertainment which richly deserved that honor. The club is composed of twelve young men as follows:

First Tenors, J. B. Struble, W. P. Brew, G. R. Johnson. Sec. Tenors, G. C. Butz W. H. Walker, J. C. Mock. First Bass, B. W. Demming, F. W. Spanutius, J. M. Walker. Sec. Bass, J. B. Walker, M. W. Bohn, G. H. Linsz. And the music which these men sing and the way they sing it are certainly delightful. There is a melody and charm about College glees sung by College students that is peculiar to them and is not found elsewhere, and in the Glee Club after months of preparation and practice this fascination, whatever it may be, reaches its highest, perfection. We were told that for the past two months the club has practiced from an hour to an hour and a half each day, Sundays excepted, and we could readily believe it, for they sing entirely without an accompaniment and the precision with which they sing and the manner in which they bring out the light and shade in those rollicking glees, are truly wonderful.

To attempt to review the programme would require more space than we have at hand. The audience was very appreciative and at times enthusiastic, demanding encores to eight out of the thirteen numbers on the programme. The several selections rendered by the Banjo club were by no means the least enjovable part of the affair. It is composed of four banjos and four guitars, and these instruments are handled with a great degree of accuracy and vigor by the several performers, all of whom seem to be experts. They also show the result of long and conscientious training and practice,

The clubs expect to take a tour through the State during the approaching vacation, commencing at Bellefonte on the 29th inst., and we would most heartily and cheerfully advise our citizens, if they want to enjoy a jolly evening and be refreshed and rejuvenated, to turn out and hear the Glee club. But there is another reason why our citizens should give the College boys a good house, and that is on account of the liberal patronage of the College people to our Bellefonte entertainments in times past. Our audiences are always made up, more or less, with people from State College. Over 100 students attended the last of the W. C. T. U. series of entertainments. This is the first chance we ever had to repay them; let us do it by coming out in full force on the 29th.

All kinds of canned goods—apples, beans, beef, condensed milk, corn, (of every brand) lobsters, oysters, peaches, peas, pumpkins, salmon, tomatoes, sardines, and everything else you could think of, at Eureka Grocery Co., store, High St., next door to post office.

—In cooking oatmeal or cracked wheat if the meal is put into a double boiler and salt added to the water in the outer receptacle, the food will be much improved in taste, the reason being undoubtedly because the meal is better cooked by this process. As salted water does not boil at so low a temperature as unsalted, therefore the meal is subjected to a greater heat and is proportionately better cooked and much improved thereby.

All kinds of evaporated fruit, such as apples, California peaches, paired and unpaired. Nectarines, Apricots, Prunelles, &c., at Eureka Grocery.

—There is a scheme on foot at Harrisburg to form a new base ball league to include the towns of Chester, Philadelphia, Reading, Norristown, Lancaster, Pottsville, Pottstown and Bethlehem. The idea is to limit the salary of players to about $600 for the season, and take in amateurs from the places where clubs are located in order to develop players.

Samuel Watkins Identified.

Mr James Hughes succeeded on Sunday in tracing the identity of Samuel Watkins, the man who was killed on Saturday night on the elevated railroad in Philadelphia. In accomplishing this identification Mr. Hughes displayed a great deal of energy and discretion. He went to Pleasant Gap, near where Graham, Brown & Co. are operating, the name C Graham on a paper in the dead man's pocket suggesting this course to him. He succeeded in learning that a man named Sam Watkins had been employed at State College. Returning to Bellefonte, he called up the College, and obtained a complete description of Samuel Watkins, who had been employed there a long time at work in roofing the different new buildings. His home was at Fairfax Court House Virginia, where he has a wife and family. He went there several weeks ago. A week ago he was in Brooklyn, N. Y. from whence he telegraphed that he would return to State College. That he is 6 feet 1 inch in height, his complexion is blonde, and other facts were elicited, the most striking being that he wore a ring which had on it a Masonic emblem, that tallied with a description sent here by the railroad authorities. This seems to establish the fact that the Samuel Watkins killed in Philadelphia is the same man who worked at the College. He is a man who was continually traveling and stayed for awhile wherever he could obtain a job of work.

Death of Mr. Isaac Lose.

At 4.30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon Mr. Isaac Lose, of Spring street, sank into the sleep of death. His disease marked the end of quite a long decline in physical strength. From a strong healthful man he was reduced, as the days passed by, into a mere shadow of his former self. The last time we saw Mr. Lose on the street was about three weeks ago. We did not hear from him again until the news of his death was received.

His wife and several sons survive him. Mr. Lose was, for several years, a member of the Presbyterian church and for some time filled the position of elder. He was quite active in the affairs of the church.

He was popular as a citizen and has filled public places, being elected constable several times. He was a liveryman, in which business his sons are also engaged. His wife survives him.

Death of Mr. Robert Shirk.

On Friday last, Mr. Robert Shirk, of Milesburg, passed over the bound which separates this life from the next. Everyone knows Mr. Shirk, but few people seemed to be aware of his death and the news did not reach our ears until Sunday.

Mr. Shirk was one of Milesburg's most respectable and honored citizens. He was one of whom everybody spoke with respect. People seemed to place implicit confidence in him. He professed an earnest Christian faith and his life was an illustration of it.

During thirty years he had been a devout member of the Baptist church and an officer in it. He was 68 years of age. Though quite feeble of late, his death was comparatively sudden.

He was buried on Sunday. The day was perfect, the attendance large and the services marked by deep feeling and earnestness. Revs. Laning and Bardens officiated.

A Lively Time With Snakes.

There was a passenger on Atlantic express Thursday morning, bound for New York, who was having a lively time with snakes, the produce of the whisky still. He was drowning them out in abundance, holding them by the head and tail. One of the "cruyel sarpients" escaped his custody and ran into a bundle belonging to a Chinaman, who occupied a seat in the rear of the hallucinated victim. He sought to dislodge the imaginary reptile, but in vain, when he pulled out a pair of scissors and was about to dissect the Celestial's bundle when the heathen quickly removed it from his reach. An employe at this point was put in charge of the snaky passenger to watch over him until he reached his destination and was taken in charge by his friends.

FOR THE BOROUGH.

Gentlemen of the Council Confirm the Burgess' Nominations and Perform Other Legislative Duties.

There was a very full attendance of the members of council at the meeting on Monday evening. This augurs well for the present council.

The gentlemen devoted themselves to business in very grave style as if they intended to make the borough move on to glory or fail in the attempt. We don't remember that a joke was perpetrated or a word of levity indulged in during the entire meeting. Think of that, ye critics, who do not have the responsibilities of a borough devolving on your shoulders.

The first business of importance was the reading of the names of the gentlemen whom his excellency Burgess Brouse considers competent to compose Bellefonte's police force. Clerk Mitchell read them. They were William Dawson for Chief and William Gares for assistant. Mr. Dawson is a new policeman, having never served on the force before. But we consider he will make a very excellent officer. William Gares has been faithful in and out of season and it is well that he was again named. The nominations were confirmed and their salaries are fixed at $35 each per month.

There will always be some one on duty, and the two policemen can arrange between themselves as to the division of their hours of service.

Then a communication from the retiring burgess, Major J. L. Spangler, was read. It recorded the receipts from fines during the year of his administration, the expenses, etc., leaving a balance of about $5, which he sent to council in the shape of his personal check for the amount. For this systematic work and promptness the council gave him the compliment of a vote of thanks. Faithful servant, step up higher.

The citizens of Reynolds avenue petitioned that a boardwalk be laid along the east side of that thoroughfare. It should be done. Of course, each property holder will be ordered to construct the walk in front of his own property.

Then the Street, Water, Fire and Police and Nuisance committees, successively, reported, but they seem to have been indulging in a state of innocuous desuetude during the two weeks interval and there was nothing of importance to report.

Just at this juncture the distant thunder of a thousand feet was heard approaching. Mr. Sam Ryan's face became quite white as he thought perhaps an army of White Caps were coming with a fine assortment of tar and feathers, while Street Commissioner Shaughensey tried vainly to sink down into the depths of his capacious boots. On up the steps they came, among them individuals who had never before been seen in the Council chamber. They were but they represented all the local expressmen in Bellefonte and their request to council was only that they be granted protection against parties who live outside the borough limits, but who ply their trade here, thus gaining the emoluments of the profitable work while they escape the payment of all except merely nominal taxes. For instance, the eloquent Mr. Barlett was the speaker. With great force and perspicuity he impressed upon council the fact that his taxes amounted to $12 per annum, that he does not drink water and washes his wagon in the limpid waters of Spring creek; that draymen who come from the rural districts to our thriving town get the same sum for carrying a trunk or other articles while their entire taxes, perhaps, do not aggregate more than 75 cents per year. Our active friend, James McCafferty, was the only other spokesman, the others keeping in the background and giving their moral and financial support. Mr. McC. said that a stated sum of charges should be established, that any one exceeding that sum should be debarred from duty, that their conveyances should be numbered, et cetera. This was quite metropolitan in its scope and produced an impression. As the council is not certain of its authority in the premises and does not want to trip up over its own feet, the request was, temporarily, reposed on the table and will be called up at some future meeting when the legal adviser gives information in regard to what can or cannot be legally done to accede to the request. To be sure, President Stover thought that it might catch cold lying for two weeks on the table and he ventured the suggestion to take it, wrap it in a silk comforter and put it in the cradle, until the all-wise clerk informed him that a request thus disposed of could not be resurrected until next meeting.

A somewhat important motion was offered and its adoption ended the session. It was, in effect, that henceforth and forever, unless otherwise ordered, the water pipes in the streets outside the curb be considered borough property and that all repairs on them be made by the borough. This is a move which will recommend itself to our more thoughtful citizens as eminently wise, sound and discreet.

—Rev. Mr. Koontz, of Lemont, will preach in the church in Bush's Addition next Sunday evening.

THIEVING HUNGARIANS.

IN SNOW SHOE, PERSONAL AND PARTICULAR EVENTS IN THE COMMUNITY.

St. Patricks day in the morning, noon and evening was as delightful as could be. We seldom have such lovely weather in the month of March.

The last three warm days have caused all our snow to disappear, but it will require several more such days to dry up the mud.

Rev. J.W. Belford, of the M. E. church, is an earnest worker in his Master's vineyard and well earns his small salary. The charge, since he came one year ago, has prospered and one hundred and fifty persons have been converted. The Methodists of this circuit appreciate his services and are working hard to raise the required amount, which is up-hill work, on account of the general depression in business in this locality.

Last Saturday night some Snow Shoe people determined to celebrate. They became gloriously drunk and had a free fight. The people of Snow Shoe do not want any repetitions of such affairs.

On Thursday night three Hungarians named John, Simon and Dianko Markowitch stole eighteen dollars from the woman with whom they were boarding and left in the night. They were seen on the pike about 10 o'clock on Friday morning tramping toward Bellefonte. A warrant has been sworn out and our constable, R. J. Hayness, Jr., is in pursuit of them. They are in Bellefonte and were seen by several parties on Saturday. They should be arrested, for if they are allowed to commit such crimes with impunity and escape punishment no one will be safe in this community.

For babies Snow Shoe is the banner town. So many little strangers have come to town the last few weeks that it is almost impossible for your correspondent to keep track of them. R. C. Duey, Percy Holt, Austin Shope, John Houston, T. B. Budinger and Thomas Duey all wear broad smiles on account of said little strangers.

—David Clark, of Northumberland, has received a very large pension, seven thousand dollars. He was a member of Company "H" of the Fifty-first Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers and was in both Libby and Andersonville prisons. While there his mind was affected, and for that reason he received the pension. J. Potter Dunham, of Northumberland, has been appointed his guardian. A. T. Parsons was the special examiner in the case. Everybody in Northumberland will be glad to hear that he has received the pension as the case was a deserving one.

—Next Sunday the Lutheran congregation will hold a congregational meeting and will carefully consider the subject of selecting building material for their new church structure. We have no doubt that the perfect beauty of the sandstone, a specimen of which was sent here from Cleveland, Ohio, will be a strong argument in favor of its selection.
